BLACK FAVORED BY COMMITTEE FOR COURT JOB

Senators Block All Moves To Delay Vote and Plan Final Action Tomorrow.

C. I. O. HINTS AT BATTLE

Bitter Debate Foreseen Over Republican Demands for Hearings.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16—The senate judiciary committee approved today the supreme court nomination of Sen. Black, Democrat of Alabama.

Voting down all proposals for delay, the overwhelming Democratic majority on the committee decided to report the liberal Alabaman's nomination favorable and [illegible]

Democratic leaders planned to call the nomination up in the senate tomorrow for confirmation. Republicans already, however, had hinted that they will ask its recommittal for hearings, foreshadowing a heated, a bitter debate over the appointment.

Refuse To Delay Action

The committee turned down requests for general hearings on the nomination and refused also to delay action long enough to permit Black to appear and be questioned on his views about judicial review.

The committee voted 13 to 4 to approve Black's nomination after two and a half hours of debate.

Sen. Neely, Democrat of West Virginia, chairman of the subcommittee which first considered the nomination, said the argument was chiefly over "constitutional questions."

Just before the committee met Sen. Burke Democrat of Nebraska, had announced he would demand that Black be questioned about his qualifications.

Only two record votes were held in the four and a half executive session of the committee.

Sen. Neely, Democrat of West Virginia chairman of a subcommittee on the nomination, moved to report the Black nomination favorably.

Sen. Burke, Democrat of Nebraska, moved as a substitute that the committee delay until it could examine the legal ability of the nominee.

The vote rejecting Burke's substitute was 11 to 5, with the committee lineup as follows:

For the motion: King, Democrat of Utah; McCarran, Democrat of Nevada Burke, Democrat of Nebraska; Austin, Republican of Vermont, and Steiwer, Republican of Oregon.

Against the motion, Neely, Van Nuys, Democrat of Indiana; Logan, Democrat of Kentucky; Dieterich, Democrat of Illinois; McGill, Democrat of Kansas; Hatch, Democrat of New Mexico, Pittman, Democrat of Nevada; Connally, Democrat of Texas, Hughes, Democrat of Delaware; Boran, Republican of Idaho; and Ashurst, Democrat of Arizona.

Then Neely's motion for a favorable report was approved 13 to 4, King, Burke, Austin and Steiwer opposing it.

Sen. O'Mahoney, who was absent, voted by letter on the final motion. Sen. Norris, Independent of Nebraska, also absent, was not recorded on either motion.

Two powerful influences were working in favor of swift approval—senatorial courtesy and the stampede for adjournment of congress this week. Even reference of the Black nomination to committee was a breach of custom providing for immediate confirmation of a senator to a federal post.

Hearings would result in delay, and congressional leaders had their followers keyed to adjourn by the end of the week. Democratic Leader Barkley, forecasting confirmation tomorrow, said he expected only a few hours' debate.

Despite these personal factors, a Republican demand for delay was increasing. Opposition senators said it was backed by telegraphic requests for hearings from many parts of the country.

The committee the request for hearings was led by Sen. Austin of Vermont, acting Republican leader in the absence of Sen. McNary of Oregon. On the floor it was backed by other Republicans, including Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire.

Black's friends contended that hearings were unnecessary in view of his service in the senate. They said the committee could learn nothing through hearings that it did not already know about the nominee.

State Officers Arrest Eight in Night Clubs

Proprietors and Waitresses Accused of Selling Liquor to Minors and Intoxicated Persons as Agents Visit Two Places Here.

Three operatives from the state department of liquor control in Columbus, assisted by city police, Saturday night and early Sunday arrested three operators of two Marion restaurants and two waitresses, who they accused of selling and serving intoxicating liquors to minors. Two of the operators and one of the waitresses were also accused of selling liquor to intoxicated persons.

Those arrested are, A. O. Lambrose, 46, of 457 Silver street and Carmello Rizzo, 56, of 256 Oak street, operators of the LaMar restaurant at 526 West Center street; S. C. Roth, 36, of the Elite apartments, the manager of Stone's Grill at 119 South Main street. Mrs. Freeda Glenn, 22, of 161 St. Clair street, a waitress at the LaMar restaurant and Mrs. Henretta Ghenese, 28, of 134 East Church street, a waitress at Stone's Grill.

Three others persons, all allegedly intoxicated, were taken into custody by the officers at the LaMar restaurant. All three pleaded guilty to intoxication charges in municipal court this morning and were fined $10 and costs.

State officers who conducted the investigations which led to the arrests said that they came to Marion follow ing numerous complaints that miners were purchasing intoxicating liquors. Their observations at the restaurants here brought the evidence of violations with reference to the sale of liquor to minors and city police were called to participate in the arrests, the state officers said.

The first investigation was conducted at the LaMar restaurant about 11:30 o'clock. Six persons were taken to the police department, two booked as operators, one as a waitress and three others as customers, the state officers said. The proprietors were released on bond of $225 each, while the bond of the waitress was fixed at $31.20.

The three customers were arraigned on intoxication charges this morning and the operators and waitress age to be arraigned at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Officers made the arrests at Stone's Grill shortly after 1 o'clock Sunday morning. S. C. Roth, manager, was released on bond of $225 and the waitress Mrs. Ghenese, was released on bond of $31.20. Their arraignment in municipal court was to be held this afternoon.

Charges were filed against the night club operators and waitresses this afternoon by city Solicitor Ralph E. Corbart, who is working with the state officers.

The three arrested at the LaMar were accused of selling liquor to minors under 18 years of age and the two from Stone's grill were charged with selling to minors under 21. The three from the LaMar also faced seperate charges of selling liquor to intoxicated persons.

Work With Police

Work with Marion police, the state officers had contacted Police Chief Marks late Saturday afternoon, to inform him of their intended investigations here. They made arraignments with Chief Marks to assist in the event that their observations at the Marion restaurants would lead to arrests.

At each restaurant the state officers spent considerable time checking for possible violations. At both places, state officers said, they witnessed the sale of liquors to persons who they felt were under 21 years of age. They then confiscated the liquor as evidence and held the minors for questioning.

Minors at both establishments were taken to the police department. There, according to the state officers, the minors, gave sworn statements as to their ages and the purchase of liquors which the officers stated they had previously witnessed.

Although the arrests at Stone's Grill were made after midnight state officers said that the grill holds a night club license which permits sale of intoxicating liquors until 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning under the present state laws. State officers added, however, that the 2:30 o'clock permit would not be in effect in the event that a city ordinance set the closing time at an earlier hour.

YOUTH DROWNS IN QUARRY POOL

BODY FOUND IN WATER

Three Companions Begin Search When They Miss Him as They Leave Water.

Special to The Star

GALION, Aug. 16—Walter Elwood Nungesser, 21, a farmer of Jefferson township northeast of here, was drowned Sunday about 6:30 p. m. while swimming with friends in a stone quarry pool about three miles north of here.

Nungesser and three friends, Glenn Starling, Miss Marjorie Wertz and Miss June Cameron, all of Galion, had made up a swimming praty at the pool, which is located off the North Market street road, near the Pennsylvania railroad tracks.

Starling and the two girls finished their swim and had left the pool when they noticed Nungesser missing. Going back to the pool, they found his body in the water.

A verdict that Nungesser had suffered a heart attack was returned by Dr. O. R. Kackley, Crawford county coroner.

Nungesser was born in Crawford county, March 10, 1916, to Aaron and Goldie Long Nungesser. He was graduated from the North Robinson High school in 1934, and was a member of the North Robinson grange and the Peace Lutheran church at Galion. Since graduation, he had been helping his father farm.

Surviving him are the parents and a sister, Edra, at home.

Private funeral services will be held Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. at the home and at 2:30 at the Peace Lutheran church. Rev. P. E. Auer will officiate, with burial in the Fairview cemetery.

Horse Falls In Well, Rescued by Auto Wrecker

Dolly, a 1,400-pound draft horse, fell into an abandoned well Saturday afternoon on the Kiger farm three miles south of Marion on the Delaware road, creating something new in the way of rescue problems.

An automobile wrecker from the McDaniel Motor Co. garage, however, solved the problem after ropes had been put in place to form a crude but effective hammock for the partially submerged animal. Dolly was lifted to safety by the wreck car's power lift about two and one-half hours after she slipped into the well.

The mishap occurred about 1 p. m. Saturday while Clyde Payne, who operates the farm for Misses Ella and Nora Kiger of Marion, was mowing a hay field. The abandoned well was concealed by hay and Payne's first warning of its presence came when Dolly, hitched in a team with Kit, another draft horse, nearly disappeared. Only her head and front feet were in sight as the concealed fringe over the top of the well gave way under the weight of the rear quarters of the horse.

Fortunately for Dolly, the plunge was "tail first" and her head and front feet remained out of water while Payne and other persons nearby studied a rescue plan.

Today, Dolly is nursing a cut near the head, which is not expected to prove vicious, and steps are being taken to properly mark and cover the abandoned well.

ILLNESS IS FATAL TO J. WM. CREASAP, 63

Member of Family of Steam Shovel Co. Employes Passes Away.

James William Creasap, 63, member of a family associated with the Marion Steam Shovel Co. since shortly after its founding in 1884, died Saturday night at 7:30 in the Frederick C. Smith clinic.

Apparently recovered from an operation a year ago in Columbus, Mr. Creasap was stricken suddenly three weeks ago at his home at 562 Girard avenue and a week ago today was taken to the clinic for a major operation. Hope for his recovery was slight and last Friday it became evident that death was a matter of hours.

A son, E. Bland Creasap of Colorado Springs, Colo., was called home more than a week ago.

Mr. Creasap was with the Shovel Co. more than 30 years, retiring four years ago. At the time of his retirement he was in the raising and routing department, of which he had been foreman. His father, John Creasap, went with the company a short time after it was organized and was killed in its employ in 1909, in the British Honduras while he was engaged in erecting one of the company's shovels.

A brother, Daniel Creasap, was an employe of the company when he was fatally injured by an automobile in the Christmas holiday season of 1923. Two brothers still

Mattern Poised For Hop In Search of Red Fliers

Plans To Comb Arctic Ice Waters for Levaneffsky Who Rescued Him from Siberia on World Flight.

By The Associated Press

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 16—Jimmy Mattern, noted American aviator prepared to leave at dawn today in his speedy, twin motored monoplane to search the Arctic wastes for six missing Russian fliers.

Mattern arrived only last night after a record-breaking non-stop flight from Oakland, Calif., to join in the search for Sigismund Levaneffsky, Soviet ace pilot, and his five companions.

MATTERN

The American flier said he would traverse the 148th meridian in quest of a clue to the fate of the Russians, who disappeared Friday on a 4,000 mile flight from Moscow to Fairbanks.

The first day's flight will take Mattern over the ice floes of the Arctic, where the four-motored Russian plane may have been forced down. He said he would return to Fairbanks tonight without attempting to land enroute and will be ready to continue his search as long as hope remains.

"Hank" Jones, Mattern's mechanic, will accompany him in his rescue mission. Clear weather was reported over most of the route the mercy plane will fly today.

Meantime, attempts will be made to coordinate the search by establishing contact with Russian rescue planes flying from Moscow.

Joe Crosson, Alaskan "mercy pilot," who has directed the search for the last three days, said today that if the Russian plane landed in Alaska a systematic search should find it. However, he added:

"A rescue in the Arctic regions would be much more difficult."

Somewhere between here and the north pole, 1,400 miles away, Pilot Levaneffsky and his companions disappeared Friday on a 4,000-mile flight to Fairbanks from Moscow.

In 1935, Levaneffsky flew into the wastes of Siberia to rescue Mattern, who crashed on an attempted world flight and nearly died before aid reached him.

Mattern, who hopes next year to fly from America to Moscow, went into immediate conference with Crosson to map out search plans.

Soviet planes and two ice-breakers were enroute to emergency bases near the pole in an attempt to refuel the six fliers before the later Arctic winter, already setting in, closes down.

Levaneffsky's huge plane crossed the pole early Friday but soon afterward reported trouble in one of its four motors. Faint radio signals Friday and Saturday indicated the plane was in trouble. In Moscow, the Soviet flight committee expressed belief the ship was down on an ice floe.

SUITS, BASEBALLS STOLEN FROM TEAM

Three baseball uniforms and two dozen baseballs, belonging to Marion's team in the Ohio State league, were stolen from the locker rooms of the club at Lincoln park stadium last week, according to a report to police Saturday by James Geyran, manager of the team. Entrance to the locker rooms, which are located beneath the new concrete stadium, was made by forcing the lock off the door. Value of the baseball suits and the baseballs was listed at $50 by Manager Geyran.

TWO ACCUSED OF DRUNKEN DRIVING

Green Camp Man Gets 30-Day Jail Sentence, Agosta Man Pleads Not Guilty.

Two motorists were arrested Saturday night by Marion police on charges of drunken driving, resulting in one being given a 30-day jail sentence, a $100 fine and a one year revocation of driving rights following a plea of guilty in municipal court this morning.

Those arrested were James Garrett, 53, of Green Camp, and Robert Howe, 23, of near Agosta. Garrett at 7:20 p. m. in the uptown section. He pleaded guilty in court this morning and was sentenced by Municipal Judge Martin. Instead of the usual 10-day jail sentence and six months revocation of driving right, his sentence was increased because he had been brought in on a similar charge three years ago, Judge Martin said.

Howe pleaded not guilty at a municipal court arraignment and his hearing was to be held later this week, Judge Martin said. Howe first brushed with the police at 4 p. m. Saturday when he reported that he had been "beat up" by two men in an alley at the rear of the Racket store at 122 South Main street.

Two and one-half hours after he had visited the police department to report the incident, he was arrested by officers on the drunken driving charge. While he was being held in jail it was learned that a charge of assault and battery had been filed against him July 2 by Lulu Patton of near Marion. The charge alleges that he struck and wounded her on July 2.

75,000 Pilgrims in Annual Visit To Carey Shrine

Attendance from All Parts of U. S. and Canada Largest in History.

Special to The Star

CAREY, Aug. 16—Pilgrims numbering approximately 75,000, the largest crowd in the history of the church, attended the services at the Shrine of Our Lady of Consolation here yesterday and Saturday. The services yesterday was in observance of the Feast of the Assumption and 30 priests, including Bishop Karl Alter of Toledo took part. Sermons were preached in eight different languages.

The occasion also marked the national reunion of Assyrians in this country which began Friday night and closed yesterday. Between 5,000 and 10,000 attended the festivities at Waterworks park Saturday night.

Special trains brought hundreds of pilgrims from Cleveland, Detroit, Youngstown, Akron, Columbus, and other points and hundreds of others arrived by motor. Motor licenses indicated that worshippers were present from every state in the union and the Dominion of Canada.

Bishop Alter was in charge of the procession which was made up of marching pilgrims bearing lighted candles. Mass was celebrated at 12:30 p. m. on the church steps and it was here that solemn benediction was celebrated following the procession at 3 p. m. Between 25,000 and 30,000 took part in the procession.

The pilgrimage which started Aug. 8, will conclude next Sunday. On Sept. 12 there will be a pilgrimage from Cincinnati and Louisville Ky., to the shrine.

Rev. Father Paul Volbrath is pastor and Rev. Father Joseph Herp is assistant pastor of the church.

Black Eye, Hens Leading Exhibits in Hearing Today

A neighborhood quarrel that involved the manicuring of two chickens and a black eye for one of the participants was settled, so far as court records are concerned, at a municipal court hearing this morning.

Judge William R. Martin heard testimony in two minor criminal charges that grew out of an Aug. 5 altercation, weighed one side against the other, and dismissed both charges.

Ralph Hill, 25-year-old Negro living on First street, brought two chickens into court to show the judge they actually had been manicured, supposedly to keep them from scratching around in flower beds.

The chickens' three front toes had not been trimmed, but the "thumbs" or back toes of their four-toed feet had been cut off.

Dismissal of the cases interrupted testimony before anyone was definitely charged with the manicuring.

However, William Brownell, of Michigan avenue, one of the participants in the quarrel, definitely alleged that Hill blacked his eye. He charged Hill with assault and battery.

Hill not only defended his actions but also charge Brownell with unlawfully possessing stolen property—his two chickens. In defense of the assault, Hill said he struck Brownell only after the latter had reached for a shotgun in a threatening manner, and again after Brownell reached hurriedly for his pocket. Hill said the incident occurred when he tried to recover his chickens from Brownell.

Hill was asked if he permitted such fine chickens at those shown in court to run at large. He answered in the affirmative.

"Do other people in the neighborhood let their chickens run loose?" his attorney asked.

"They all do," Hill said.

"How do you tell which chickens are yours?"

"They always come home to roost," Hill said.

Mrs. Beale Brownell, wife of Brownell, was on the witness stand and told of penning the chickens after they damaged a garden, but said she later turned them loose.

Judge Martin looked at Brownell's eye. The discoloration and other effects of the injury apparently were gone. He looked at the chickens. They seemed to be in good health and spirits despite the manicure.

A brief conference with attorneys ended the hearing with the court and both sides agreeing on dismissal.

PROBE NINE OTHER DEATHS

Four of Them Elderly Germans Who Were Friendly With Suspect.

By The Associated Press

(Picture on Page 3)

CINCINNATI, Aug. 16—Acting quickly after receiving evidence in what Prosecutor Dudley Miller Outcalt termed "the biggest mass murder in this country," the Hamilton county grand jury today indicted Mrs. Anna Hahn, 35-year-old mother, on two charges of murder.

The jurors charged her with the "malicious and premeditated slaying of George Geilman, 67, who died suddenly July 6 and Jacob Wagner, 78, a tobacconist, who died June 3.

The two short form indictments were reported to Judge Charles S. Bell by Grand Jury Foreman John Barrie within 15 minutes after being called to consider the case. Police have nine other unexplained deaths under scrutiny, four of which were of elderly German men with whom Mrs. Hahn admitted having been friendly.

Four Witnesses Testify

Only four witnesses testified. Acting Detective Chief Patrick Hayes, Lieut. George Schaible, chief of the police homicide squad; Detective Walter Hirt and Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Frank M. Gueswellyer presented briefly evidence uncovered in the fat reaching inquiry.

Both Geilman's and Wagner's bodies were exhumed and vital organs examined by City Chemist O. P. Behrer, who reported finding "positive traces of poison" in Geilman's viscera.

Outcalt reported that at least one witness had been found who

FORMER BANKER HERE DIES IN COLUMBUS

J. H. Wetmore Stricken After Year's Illness; Funeral in Concord, Mich.

John Howard Wetmore, 68, associated with the present National City Bank & Trust Co. of Marion from its founding in 1909 until 1925 and a former member of the American consular service in Germany and Ireland, died yesterday morning at his home in Upper Arlington.

Death, due to Hodgkin's disease, followed an acute illness of the disease since July a year ago. He was first stricken with the ailment in 1926.

At the time of his death Mr. Wetmore was secretary-treasurer of the Central West Mortgage Co. of Columbus, a firm which he organized in 1927.

Mr. Wetmore came to Marion in 1909 from Cheboygan, Mich., where he had been in control of the Bank of Cheboygan, a private institution owned by his father.

He came here at the time the old City National bank was organized, with the understanding that he was to be a stockholder and assistant cashier. The organizers of the institution included Fred H. Gulbery of 470 Delaware avenue, D. R. Crissinger of 147 Sharpless court and the late William Carlisle and David Lincoln.

Speed Over Battle Zone To Board Liner Taft Bound for America as More Marines Arrive.

SOME GO TO MANILA

Shanghai Surrounded by War on 15-Mile Front Now Raging Through Its Fourth Day.

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Aug. 16—American women and children passed safely through shellfire today and began an officially ordered exodus from stricken Shanghai.

The first of the hundreds who must leave this city of war within the next few days were sped through the heart of Chinese-Japanese air, land and sea battle along the Whangpoo river on their way to safety abroad.

Shell fragments tore the decks and cabins of the tender which carried 200 Americans—many of them refugees—to the homebound liner President Taft, waiting off the Whangpoo's mouth.

Shanghai Surrounded

Shanghai was surrounded by the 15-mile front of the Chinese-Japanese war, which raged through its fourth day here, and United States authorities ordered all their women and children out.

Three hundred fifty more are to leave tomorrow for Manila on the Dollar liner President McKinley. A like number will go Wednesday on the President Jefferson.

The big liner President Hoover, bringing United States marine reinforcements from Manila, can carry about 1,000 American refugees from Shanghai about the end of the week. The Red Cross at Manila is preparing for their reception.

The fiercest land fighting of the battle for Shanghai roared tonight along the whole front around Shanghai and north of the Yangtze river. Bursts of fire from both Chinese and Japanese lines kept the sky almost continuously alight.

Most bitterly contested sector was along the Shanghai-Woosung railway, running north from the city. There the Chinese army apparently was throwing a desperate attack against the Japanese lines, trying to reach the fortress-like headquarters of the Japanese naval forces on the northern border of Japanese-held Hongkew.

The Japanese threw their full land strength into this fray.

Foreign consults saw hope fade for preventing a repetition of Saturday's international area Chinese bombings, which killed and wounded thousands. The Japanese agreed to refrain from flying over foreign areas south of Soochow creek but the Chinese refused to promise this—unless the Japanese "cease to use the international settlement as a military base."

United States marines and bluejackets were rushed ashore in full war kit from the U. S. S. Augusta, flagship of the Asiatic fleet, to cover the evacuation decided at a three-hour emergency conference of American officials.

Destroyers Ordered Out

Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander-in-chief of the Asiatic fleet, ordered two American destroyers based on Chefoo to proceed to Shanghai under forced draught. It was believed they were to be used as convoys for commercial vessels evacuating the American residents.

The Augusta, flagship of Admiral Yarnell, was in the center of the rain of shells and bombs from the land and sea engagements both Chinese and Japanese planes were operating directly above the cruiser. Impertinently and silently those aboard the American flagship watched the engagement from their grandstand seats.

Shortly after the Japanese attacked at dawn with all their forces on land, sea and in the air, the Chinese air fleet struck a counter attack. Thirty planes suddenly appeared over the headquarters of the Japanese landing party and began raining bombs.

A Japanese attack squadron rose from its airdrome to the east, to give combat and out of the west 12 Chinese planes suddenly joined in. After a brisk battle high above the city the Chinese planes withdrew.

Return to Scene

They circled wide and then, changing direction, returned to blast at the Japanese inhabited Hongkew district of the International settlement and the water front along the Whangpoo river. Japanese reported that a number of Japanese citizens and several foreigners were killed and many injured when a Chinese bomb struck

Marion Team Divides Double Bill With Tiffin Hens

White Sox Beat Indians; Reds Win Two from Cubs

BY SID FEDER

Did you ever see a worm turning?

They're doing it all over the place these days. Washington's wallowing Senators are breezing along on an eight-game winning streak. Pittsburgh's pathetic Pirates are plodding back toward third place in the National league. And Cincinnati's collapsing Reds have just made the high-and-mighty Chicago Cubs holler "uncle."

Young Edgar Smith, who had been trying all season for his first straight victory, completed the sweep of the Philadelphia-New York Yankee series with a seven-hitter yesterday, and climaxed a feat that hasn't been duplicated since May, 1924. Not since then, when the Cleveland Indians accomplished it, has any club swept a three-game series from the Yanks.

The breaks made it easy for the A's yesterday. Joe DiMaggio committed two errors that set up three unearned runs for the Quaker city combination.

The Yankees maintained their lop-sided ten game lead in the pennant chase, since the second-place Detroit Tigers kicked away a six-run lead, and lost, 8-7, to the Browns.

Over in the National league the jinx-loaded Chicago Cubs were walloped thoroughly and all over the lot by the Reds and lost a double-header, 13-8 and 9-8.

Their league lead was cut to four games—shortest in two weeks—as the second-place Giants turned back a late rally by the Phillies to register a 5-4 decision for their third straight win.

Washington belted the Red Sox twice, 9-3 and 8-3, to climb into fifth place and drop the Bostons into fourth. The White Sox advanced to third and shoved the Indians down to sixth by trouncing Cleveland, 5-3 and 3-2, in a bargain bill.

Paul Waner found St. Louis pitching easy meat and the Pirates picked up a twin win, 8-1 and 4-0, to make it three straight over the Cards. The Brooklyns and the Boston Bees battled through two acts of a comedy of errors, and split, the Dodgers winning the opener, 7-5, and Danny MacFayden toeing a three-hitter for a 9-1 Boston win in the nightcap.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 16 — The Cleveland Indians occupied sixth place today in the American League standings after taking two shellackings in the Sunday doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox.

The slipping Tribesmen lost the first game, 5 to 3, and the second, 8 to 2. A crowd of 32,000 fans frequently booed the Indians.

Manager Steve O'Neill himself drew vocal displeasure when he sent Bruce Campbell to bat for Julius Solters in the seventh inning with the bases loaded in the nightcap—and Campbell fanned.

The Tribe plays the Browns at St. Louis tomorrow.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 16—Victors in both ends of double header with the National League leading Chicago Cubs, the Cincinnati Reds invaded American Association territory today for a floodlight exhibition with the Toledo Mud Hens.

The double win, 13 to 8, 9 to 8, gave the Reds the Windy city series. The Cubs took the first, 22 to 6, and the Reds the second, 10 to 4.

Cincinnati jumped to three and a half games ahead of the seventh place Brooklyn Dodgers and within five and a half games of the fifth place Boston Bees, but cut the Cubs' lead over the second place Giants to four games.

Cincinnati's third baseman, Lew Riggs hit two successive home runs to right field in Sunday's nightcap and Hub Walker, outfielder got five straight hits including a home run. The latter's batting average jumped from .225 to .250 during the series.

GEYGANITES LOSE FIRST GAME, WIN SECOND TILT HERE

BY CHARLES HOSTETLER

Before an estimated crowd of 500 fans, Marion's baseball club, scrapping to retain the runner-up position in the Ohio state league and more or less on the league leading Mansfield Red Sox, yesterday afternoon divided honors in a double-header with the Tiffin Mud Hens at Lincoln park stadium.

Three fielding errors contributed heavily to Marion's 10 to 8 defeat in the opener, but the Geyganites came back for revenge to win the nightcap, 5 to 2. Meanwhile the pace-setting Red Sox added a full marker to bring their first place lead to five and one-half games by marking up two wins over the week-end.

Mansfield yesterday trounced the Fremont Reds in both ends of a double bill, 10 to 8 and 7 to 6. Fostoria's lowly Red Birds battled on even terms with the Findlay Brownies, the Flock winning the first game, 10 to 9, played at the Findlay park and Coach Grover Hartley's Browns winning the nightcap at Fostoria, 12 to 11. In a Saturday game, Findlay defeated Tiffin, 2 to 1.

Idle Today

The Geyganites, along with all other league clubs, will be idle today and swing into action for the current week on Tuesday afternoon. Marion will be seen in action on the home field in a double-header with Findlay tomorrow afternoon. The first game is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock, bringing the starting time of the nightcap to about 5:30, the usual time of a single encounter. Marion will be on the road the remainder of the week, returning here Sunday for a twin bill with Fostoria.

Manager Charley Eckert's Mud Hens had everything their own way in the opener yesterday, slapping out 11 hits off two of the three Marion pitchers who were sent to the mound. Righthander Johnny Brich started on the hill for the home club and in five and one-third innings gave up eight hits and four walks, on which the Hens collected four runs.

Tiffin led off in scoring with a lone tally in the initial frame. Marion picked up the lead with two markers in the last of the frame but held it only momentarily as the Hens tallied a pair in the second and another in the third. On a pair of walks, a single by Kauffman and Harvey Eader's Texas league double, Marion picked up a trio of scores in the fourth to hold a 5 to 4 advantage.

Blanks For 2 Innings

Johnny Brich blanked the visitors in the fourth and fifth innings, but in the sixth, after hitting the first batter with a pitched ball, he allowed three Tiffin singles which brought in a pair of runs. With two out, Merritt Lancaster, the baby of the Marion mound staff, relieved Brich. Lancaster pitched through the eighth inning and gave up three hits, going to the bench when he was replaced by a pinch-hitter, Baker, in the last of the eighth.

Gordon "Slim" Maun, completed the final inning on the mound, and Marion went into the ninth, trailing, 10 to 5. Setting Tiffin's club down in order, Marion came to bat and inaugurated a scoring rally that netted three runs but fell short of overcoming the heavy lead of the visitors. The final frame almost proved disastrous to the Hens. Harvey Eader led off with a walk. Platek flied to the shortstop. Ted Swed cracked a single to rightfield and Manager Geygan was intentually passed filling the bases.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—Despite all denials you can look for an announcement from the Giants, soon. Glad to see Kid Chocolate back on the big time....After a long uphill struggle he's in the main event at the Garden, Thursday night. Correction: Eighteen-year-old Billy Scanlon of LaCrosse, Wis., isn't the youngest sports editor in the country—Kenneth Bilby, 17, of the Tucson, Ariz., Daily Citizen says he is....Scouts are rushing to Pensacola Fla., to look over 19-year-old Lamar, Iowa, who has just hurled his second no-hit, no-run game in nine days.

Mike Jacobs has the old ballyhoo working full speed....First Jimmy Braddock, then Jack Felix and Jim Turner these days. Dempsey gives Tommy Farr a chance against Joe Louis. Nerts. All those Beantown fans, who are hoisting steins to Lou Fette and Jim Turner these nights, shouldn't forget wise old Bill McKechnie, who plucked both right out of the sticks. Latest dope is the Indians will make another try for Tony Lazzeri.

New York newspapers report the Giants already have made overtures to the Cubs for Gabby Hartnett (to succeed Bill Terry as field leader) but our info is Chuck Dressen of the Reds has just as good a chance. Joe DiMaggio is pulling for the Cubs in the National league—he's heard about those new left field bleachers.

COLUMBUS AGAIN IN SECOND PLACE AFTER BEATING HENS TWICE

Rizzo and Slaughter Set Pace For Red Birds in Double-header Victory.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 16—Columbus was back in second place in the torrid American Association pennant race today, and Red Bird fans again were pointing with pride to those brilliant young outfielders, John Rizzo and Enos Slaughter.

The Red Bird ball nawks teamed up yesterday to lead the Cardinal crew to a double victory over Toledo, 14 to 3 and 11 to 7. In the opener the Birds collected 15 hits as Max Macon was nolding the Mud Hens to 11 safeties.

With second place in the balance, Slaughter and Rizzo stepped out and obtained four hits apiece in a 22-hit offense against two Hen hurlers. Slaughter had a distinct edge in runs driven in, getting five over the plate to one for his rival. Two of Slaughter's safeties were homers.

Minneapolis had the jitters against St. Paul, dropping a 13 to 3 decision in which the losers made six errors, in the seventh inning. Bill Cox, meanwhile, was holding the league-leaders to eight hits. It was St. Paul's first series win over the Millers this season.

Milwaukee and Kansas City split the Brewers taking the first game 5 to 3 and the Blues the nightcap, 6 to 3. Bill Brenzel, Milwaukee catcher, was hit on the forehead by one of Joe Gibbs pitches, but apparently suffered only a slight concussion. Al Marchand, Kansas City rightfielder, was hit in the face by a line drive which bounced off the ground. He will be lost to the Blues several days.

Eddie Morgan cracked a homer with two mates on base as Louisville defeated Indianapolis 6 to 3 in the nightcap of a double bill, after the Tribe won the opener, 6 to 2.

Steam Shovel Team Defeats Cardington, 9-4

The Marion Steam Shovel A. A. baseball club annexed its ninth victory of the season yesterday by walloping the Cardington Merchants 9 to 4 on the Cardington diamond. The Shovel club has suffered but four defeats during its current schedule.

Harold Fetter, righthand mound artist, faced the Cardington club and set it down with but five hits in the nine innings. Meanwhile, Fetter's teammates were collecting 13 safeties off Cardington's hurler.

Sunday, Aug. 22, the Steam Shovel team will travel to Shelby, it was announced by Manager Bill Darnell.

SILENT RATTAN TO WRESTLE NENOFF

The return encounter of Bulgaria's Steve Nenoff and Silent Rattan of Kansas City, Mo., will feature tonight's meeting of grappling fans scheduled for 8:30 o'clock at the outdoor arena on Cheapher avenue. The pair last week wrestled to a one hour draw, Rattan winning under the handicap agreement that Nenoff was to have won two consecutive falls to claim the bout.

Charlie Carr of Little Rock, Ark., will make his first appearance in the Marion ring in recent years when he comes here tonight to take part in the same program. Carr will be matched with The Spook whose identity remains a secret. The card will include a 20-minute preliminary at 8:30.

MARION SOFTBALL TEAM WINS 22 OF 27 GAMES TO DATE

All-Stars Add to Victory Series by Defeating Galion Nine Twice.

Nabbing both ends of a twin bill Sunday afternoon, the Marion Merchant All Stars softball players added two victories to their season's record at the expense of the Winters Service Station nine of Galion. The All Stars took the first game, 8 to 6, over the 11 inning route, and won the second, 4 to 1 when the second contest was called at the end of four and one-half innings by darkness.

The Merchant and Galion teams clashed on the Garfield park diamond. Marion's club as a result of the double victory, has a record of 22 victories in 27 starts this season. Next Sunday the All Stars will travel to Newark to play the Pure Oil team of that city. Score by innings of yesterday's games follow:

$9.82 RACER WINS SOAP BOX DERBY FOR N. Y. YOUTH

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., Aug. 16—Twelve-year-old Robert Ballard, son of a White Plains, N. Y., real estate broker, thanked a trim little 49.82 racer today for the All-American soap box derby championship and a four-year university scholarship, a handsome silver trophy and a diamond-set gold medal.

The home-made speeder carried Robert to victory yesterday in the fourth annual soap box classic in which 123 boys between nine and 15 years old participated. They represented as many communities.

A throng police estimated at 130,000 cheered as Robert's gravity-powered vehicle rolled down the 1,175-foot concrete course in the final race of a five-hour program at Derby Downs.

The Empire State youth also won the international championship race and added a trophy by negotiating the course in the fastest time for the day—28.86 seconds in his fleetwheat.

Kenneth Richardson, 12, of Detroit, took second in the derby, and

PASTOR ANSWERS ARTICLE ON CHURCH ATTENDANCE

Rev. Heistand in Union Sermon Discusses Essay "Why I Don't Go to Church."

An article, "Why I Don't Go to Church," written by William Corbin, which drew considerable attention from ministers and laymen when it was published recently in a national monthly magazine, drew a reply from Rev. John W. Heistand of the First Reformed church in his sermon at the union service last night at the Central Christian church. The answering sermon was on "Belief or Faith."

"The reasons advanced by Mr. Corbin and his friends for not attending church are not reasons but excuses, when he himself admits," Rev. Heistand told a congregation of approximately 200 persons.

"After reviewing the functions now performed by the church and now administered and duplicated by secular and civic agencies, the author sets out to discover if there is one unique or distinctive task which the church has to perform," he continued.

"He set about to interview a number of ministers and theological students in various parts of the country. It is to be regretted that he had to search so far until he found the answer.

"This shows somewhat how the church has digressed from her real mission and has tried to compete with secular institutions. It is also to be regretted that when he did find the answer he was so blinded by his egotism and faith in human intelligence and strength he could not see the truth of it. He found the answer when a theological student told him that the uniqueness of the church and its task, which could never be replaced by other institutions, was the presenting of Jesus Christ to the world.

"The unique and distinctive task of the church is to present to a confused world Jesus Christ and thereby give life meaning," Rev. Heistand said.

In opening his sermon Rev. Heistand said: "Mr. Corbin says that he believes in God, that he is still religious at heart, that he still believes in prayer, that he believes in a meaning of life beyond himself and that that meaning can be fulfilled by putting into practice the Golden Rule even though he does not attend church. He feels, too, that he is virtuous and upright and moral.

Rev. Heistand took exception to the writer's stand when he said, "However, he forgets that the church is not an institution founded merely on belief in God and Jesus Christ, for belief is mere intellectual assent or knowledge of facts. The church is an institution of faith, faith which builds upon belief and knowledge but goes beyond it to take God at His word. Faith 'leads into action. More belief never causes action.'"

Dr. Harry L. Bell, pastor of the Central church, presided. Rev. E. A. Lehman of St. Paul's English Lutheran church read the scripture message and Rev. Lawrence A. Wood of the Trinity Baptist church offered prayer. The benediction was pronounced by Dr. Edward T. Waring, pastor of Epworth M. E. church. A program of selections on the Duncan Memorial organ by Mrs. Bell preceded the service. First Reformed church young people were in charge of a union young people's meeting at 7.

ADMISSION PRICE UP FOR OHIO FAIR

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 16—An increase of from 25 to 50 cents in admission price and a Sunday fair are outstanding changes in plans for Ohio's state fair which Earl H. Hanefeld, director of agriculture, predicted today will be "the greatest in the history of the state."

The fair opens Aug. 28 and continues through Sept. 3. The first two days will be given over principally to junior fair displays and judging. Vocational agriculture students and 4-H club members are expected from over the state.

The prize list has been increased from $123,000 in 1936 to $141,000 and most of this has been donated by various organizations, Hanefeld said.

POET SOUGHT AFTER SLAYING OF CO-ED

By The Associated Press

BEREA, Ky., Aug. 16 — Police investigating the ambush slaying of a Berea college co-ed were hunting today for George E. Wells, 20, a quiet, poetry-writing student of the mountain institution.

The girl, Opal Sturgill, 18, a sophomore was shot three times with a pistol early last night as she and her "date" William Anderson another student were strolling together on the Berea campus. Anderson said a man leaped from a clump of bushes, fired upon the girl and fled.

Words growing along an Arizona irrigation ditch are burned by long handled torches carried by a gasoline truck, which provides air pressure to the burners.

GEYGANITES LOSE FIRST, WIN SECOND

and the bases loaded in the ninth by Lupo. The dimunitive right-hander threw eight balls in nine consecutive pitches and walked two runs in for Marion before Manager Eckert sent Chuck Cronin in to finish the ball game. Bill Mulvihill, the first batter to face Cronin, hit to the shortstop for an infield out, Geygan scoring on the play. Hurler Mann came to bat and after working the count to three and two, without taking his bat off his shoulder, Mann was retired on a called strike.

Tiffin held a slim one-run advantage through most of the night-cap and it was sixth-inning rally that brought Marion the 5 to 3 victory. Both teams pick up lone markers in the first inning. Tiffin on a single, double and fielding error and Marion on a pair of singles by Stiewe and Kauffman and a miscue in the field.

Juckpo scored for Tiffin in the third when he was safe as Ted Swed fumbled the throw to first base and then advanced on Ebranyi's long double. Through the remaining four innings Gordon Mann succeeded in setting the Hens down with but two hits and perfect infield support helped him blank the visitors.

Mike Harris started the Marion fireworks in the sixth with a single to left field. Catcher Mulvihill cracked out his second hit in as many times at bat, a blistering single to the same spot to send Harris to third base. Goldsmith's error in handling Mulvihill's hit permitted Harris to score and Mulvihill's advance to second.

Pitcher Mann walked and the Marion backstop scored on Stiewe's single to leftfield. Mann took third and Stiewe moved to second on Harvey Eader's perfect sacrifice hit. Stan Platek was intentionally walked, filling the bases, and Ted Swed redeemed himself for his previous error at first by cracking a single through second base to score both Mann and Stiewe. Kauffman was out on a bounder to shortstop to end the inning.

TRADERS CLING TO SIDELINES

Steels Weak at Start and Others Dip but Recover Later On.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—The stock market had a "blue Monday" look today as all buying forces nibbled at a few specialties and left leading issues strictly alone.

A substantial dip in steels at the start encouraged light offerings elsewhere. There was some stiffening in trends later but declines of fractions to a point or more were widely distributed.

Seeking reasons for the lackadaisical performance of the list in the face of satisfactory earnings reports and a comparatively cheerful outlook for fall business boardrooms pointed to the confusing congressional picture, thoughts of a delayed adjournment and a little more tenseness over the warfare at Shanghai.

Bonds and commodities were mixed. Japanese dollar loans were notably weak as that country was confronted with extraordinary expenditures in its conflict with China.

On the losing end during the greater part of the proceedings were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, American Can, Westinghouse, du Pont, General Electric, Anaconda, Chrysler, General Motors, Goodrich and U. S. Rubber.

International Telephone was in supply as a result of the trouble at Shanghai, although the company's interest in the Shanghai Telephone Co. represents only about 1.36 per cent of its total investment.

Good earnings statements elicited no especial response from Armstrong Cork, Pacific Gas, Virginia-Carolina Chemical and Monsanto Chemical.

Wool Market

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Aug. 16—Little interest was shown in wool by either mill or top maker buyers today. The quiet market appeared to be the result of slow demand for goods. Holders of domestic wools however showed no disposition to shade asking prices in an attempt to stimulate sales.

By a new process paraffin is distilled from brown coal tar to be made into a fatty substance used in making soap.

Terrorism Charges Against Goodyear To Be Heard by Labor Board.

By The Associated Press

GADSDEN, Ala., Aug. 16—The industrial city scene of the breaks of labor violence awaited today an official airing of charges and counter charges of "terrorism" made by the United Rubber Workers and Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

Hearing of a formal complaint issued against the company by the national labor relations board was set for Thursday.

Regional Director Charles N. Feidelson said the NLRB complaint was based on information furnished by B. T. Carter of Gadsden, international representative of the United Rubber Workers, an affiliate of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

The complaint charged the company with "acts of terrorism" in an attempt to prevent unionization of its employes. The company retorted that the union resorted to "coercion, intimidation and terrorism" in its membership campaign.

The company's answer to the complaint denied it had discriminated against the union or its members "in any manner or form." The answer was signed by A. G. Michaels, plant superintendent.

Labor leaders have described Gadsden as an "armed camp," while city officials have insisted the situation was normal and laid responsibility for violence to "outside labor agitators."

The Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND

TAKE IT FROM EVE

The big feat of a married woman's life is to keep a sweet, cheerful disposition and a streamline figure, at the same time.

No two marriages are alike, but every new love-affair is merely another carbon-copy of all those that have gone before. It begins in the same old way, has the same old plot—and ends in the same old headache.

When a woman wants to look most attractive she leaves off a few more clothes, but when a man wants to be an eyeful he puts on more clothes. He knows the charm of concealment and the value of garnish.ngs.

It never occurs to a man to wonder if he would be more attractive to the women if he got a permanent wave or had a facelift. Whgddye mean "more" attractive?

No woman can win an argument and a man at the same time. So, the clever ones concentrate on the man—and save the argument until after the wedding.

Nothing gives a man such a luxurious feeling as to turn over, after his wife has called him for breakfast, and doze for five or ten minutes more in the placid unconsciousness that she will do his "worrying" for him.

Most modern men don't mind making love to a girl, these summer evenings, if she insists—but they want her to understand clearly that there is to be no "romantic nonsense" about it.

Love is not actually dead between a husband and wife until she begins to think of him as "That man!"—and he begins to think of her as the woman he's "got to go home to" every night.

When a man honestly loves a woman, he doesn't have to bother about other temptations — he wouldn't recognize a temptation if it came up and kissed him.

The small son of Mr. and Mrs. Muchmore, two other children of Mrs. Chrysler and the drivers of the cars escaped injury. The cars were not seriously damaged.

WIDESPREAD DROUTH DAMAGE LIFTS CORN

Nebraska, So. Dakota, Iowa and Minnesota Report Crop "Fired."

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 16—Flurried buying as well as notable upturns of prices took place in the corn market today following reports of widespread 15 per cent crop damage.

The damage advices came chiefly from Nebraska, South Dakota, northwest Iowa and southern Minnesota. Hot winds together with lack of moisture were asserted to have caused the corn crop to "fire".

At the close, corn futures ranged from ⅝ to 2¼ cents above Saturday's finish, Sept. 99@99¼, Dec. 68⅝@¾, wheat ½@¾ down, Sept. 1.13⅝@¾, Dec. 1.12½@¾, and oats unchanged to ¼ off.

"THE GOOD EARTH" WINS HIGH PRAISE, NOW IS AT PALACE

"The Good Earth" at the Palace through Tuesday is one of those rare films deserving of the appellation distinguished. It is outstanding because it is the motion picture field at its highest standard, it was produced with a maximum of care as to authenticity, it is a rich bringing to life of Pearl Buck's best seller, it has Luise Rainer and Paul Muni in fine characterizations.

Muni's interpretation of Wang is well done. Miss Rainer's characterization of O-Lan, his faithful wife, is inspired. With perhaps the fewest spoken lines ever given a picture star she, by magnificent use of her eyes, her posture, the inflections of her few utterances, makes O-Lan a woman living the heights and depths of life.

The setting given the picture is a masterpiece of production art, breathing the atmosphere of China, and the makeup is another artistic triumph. The photography, work of Karl Freund, is deserving of distinguished honors when such are awarded for the year's film output, and by "fading-in" the film presents in a few minutes at scenic places, panoramas of Chinese life.

Although the story is of China and the characters are Chinese, the elements of life throughout the world are contained in it. Wang, a poor farmer, marries O-Lan, a slave girl. They work side by side in the fields, prosper, and are happy. Then famine strikes and rather than sell their precious land they and their children go into the city and beg. Revolution strikes and in the mob frenzy of looting, O-Lan succeeds in getting jewels. They return to their farm but Wang becomes imbued with ideas of grandeur and builds a larger house, finally buying a large home in the city. With his money and position he forgets his debt to O-Lan and the land and conforming to the custom of rich men, takes a second wife, played by Tilly Losch, a sensuous girl with whom his son becomes enamored. Through it all his wife is submissive, ever considerate of his happiness. When he discovers his second wife's deception with his son he is enraged and orders him to leave. At the height of their altercation his eldest son comes with news that a plague of locusts threatens their crops. The scenes of the locust invasion are particularly noteworthy from a production angle. It is at the wedding feast for their second son that Wang and O-Lan have their tenderest scene.

The chief supporting roles are in the hands of experienced character actors, including Walter Connolly as Wang's uncle, inclined to a life of leisure rather than labor and Charley Grapewin as Wang's venerable father. Jessie Ralph plays the part of the old Chinese woman in charge of the kitchen slave girls of which O-Lan is one, and Keye Luke well known to followers of Charlie Chan's adventures is Wang's eldest son.

If one leans himself away from the story long enough, the realization will come that the musical score of the picture plays a remarkable part in setting the emotional quality.

A colored cartoon starring the pups and a newsreel are the only additional items on the bill. The reviewer recommends that patrons follow the special time schedule. Much of the power of the picture, which runs more than two hours, will be lost if it is not seen as a whole. The feature starts promptly, at 1:20, 4:05, 6:50 and 9:35—H. H.

PATTERN 4479

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, Aug. 17

A VERY active but doubtful day is forecast from the predominant lunar and mutual aspects of the major planets. The energies will be pitched to high points of initiative, but there are adverse conditions and some pitfalls to be adjusted before there can be successful issues. There may be obstacles due to illness or sorrow. Change is imminent, involving unexpected journeys. But be careful as to financial losses or speculation.

Those whose birthday it is should be prepared for a fairly lively and progressive year, with the energies stirred to high initiative. Although this spirit of enterprise may find some stubborn obstacles requiring postponements or temporary setbacks. It is probable that illness or domestic anxiety may occasion this delay.

A child born on this day should be energetic, enterprising and industrious, but restless, unsettled and prone to procrastinate or waste its energies in too much attention to details. Its physical well being may be a factor requiring early attention.

3 BILLS REMAIN BEFORE RECESS

Tax Loopholes, Housing and Deficiency Measures Likely To Pass This Week.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug 16—Administration leaders, reluctantly junking wage-hour legislation until next year, buckled down today to jam three key measures through congress before adjournment

They conceded they could not pry loose the controversial labor standards bill from the house rules committee and that even if they could, members were in no mood to remain for a long floor fight.

This decision left these measures on the program, which probably can be completed by Saturday night or early next week

1. A bill to seal tax loopholes against which little opposition has been recorded It is an outgrowth of the inquiry into tax dodging recommended by President Roosevelt The house agreed to debate it today, and the senate will take it up Wednesday

2. A low-cost housing program, approved by the administration and already passed by the senate A house committee has revised it drastically in preparation for debate Wednesday.

3. A deficiency appropriation bill, end-of-session routine It provides for necessary federal expenditures which developed after regular appropriation bills were passed

In addition, the senate must vote on the supreme court nomination of Sen Black, Democrat of Alabama, and the house will consider a senate-approved resolution to make farm price legislation the first order of business at the next session.

A number of minor bills remained on the calendar to clutter up the adjournment rush, but Democratic chieftains were ready to discard any which might give any material hindrance.

30 BANDS IN LEGION PARADE IN COLUMBUS

Require Three Hours To Pass Reviewing Stand; Thousands in Streets.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug 16—Ohio Legionnaires and members of affiliated organizations—5,000 strong — paraded through downtown streets past the state Capitol today to the music of some 30 bands.

It was the annual state American Legion parade and ranked as the outstanding spectacle of this year's convention. Nearly three hours were required for the marchers to pass a reviewing stand.

Thousands of spectators lined sidewalks along the line of march The day was hot and many of the marchers garbed in uniforms showed signs of feeling the heat

Selection of the best Legion drum and bugle corps in the state and the best department bugler featured yesterday's program on the opening day of the gathering.

Post No 12 of Elyria won the drum and bugle corps event and Elmer Barnum of Elyria took top honors in the contest for buglers, beating out Albert Isabel of Cleveland Heights and Frank Mundy of Lima who finished in that order.

Barnett post No 123 of Norwood placed second in the drum and bugle contest and post No 221 of Massillon was third. Eighteen teams competed in the event held at Red Bird stadium.

During the afternoon C. Herbert Schnizel of Toledo was elected president of the 40 et 8 society and Mrs. Irene Blum of Dayton was elevated to the presidency of the 8 et 40 group.

Ohio department officers will be elected Tuesday, the concluding day of the convention. Candidates were Eli Jensen of Springfield, James V. Suhr of Cleveland and Robert Roberts of Youngstown.

A band composed of 75 Lima residents dressed in navy uniforms paraded Columbus streets yesterday afternoon under the direction of F. U. Sime.

DELAY ASKED IN AID TO FARM TENANTS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16—The house appropriations committee recommended today that the start of the administration's farm tenancy program be postponed a year.

The agriculture department's request for $20,000,000 to inaugurate the program, authorized earlier in the session, was not written into the third deficiency appropriation bill reported today.

Advanced as one of the major pieces of farm legislation of the second Roosevelt term, the tenancy act authorized $10,000,000 this year for liberal loans to worthy tenants for purchase of farms and $10,000,000 for retirement of submarginal lands.

The Texas loan allotment would be $920[illegible] Mississippi would come next with $647,133, and Georgia third with $637,340.

Ohio was to get $225,2[illegible]

Japan Pouring More Soldiers Into Shanghai

20,000 on Way To Reinforce 80,000 Already in China and More To Come.

James A Mills, dean of Associated Press foreign correspondents, wirelessed from the S S President McKinley, between Japan and Shanghai, the first completely uncensored story of Japan's side of the Sino-Japanese conflict.

BY JAMES A MILLS
Associated Press Writer

ON BOARD THE S S PRESIDENT McKINLEY BETWEEN KOBE AND SHANGHAI, Aug 16 — Japan is pouring troops by the thousands into the Chinese war zones

The President McKinley, en route to Shanghai, has passed Japanese transports carrying 20,000 troops to Shanghai to reinforce perhaps 80,000 Japanese soldiers and marines already in China.

The new Japanese forces will supplement naval landing parties and be prepared to resist any further Chinese attacks

This correspondent also saw columns of Japanese war transports returning to Japan from China to pick up additional reinforcements

In Japan itself, the war is unpopular But railroad stations along all main lines are gaily decorated with flags, banners and lanterns and crowded with people giving Japanese soldiers a loud sendoff

Countless military trains loaded with artillery, motor trucks, tanks, anti-aircraft guns and armed motorcycles converge on Japan's ports

Six thousand horses were sent from Kobe

This second Sino-Japanese war is unpopular in Japan because the people already are overwhelmed with taxes and other burdens

Under the stimulus of government propaganda the Japanese nation has accepted the conflict reluctantly as an accomplished fact from which there is no backing down.

Although a general mobilization has not yet been proclaimed, Japan already is on a full wartime footing.

The cabinet is determined to obtain concrete results—returns for the half billion yen (about $145,000,000) already invested in the war

Foreign economic experts say Japan's finances will not stand more than a three-months' war because the government's only real, tangible funds consist of the equivalent of about $400,000,000 in gold

PAIR SOUGHT AFTER ATTEMPTED HOLDUP

Crawford County Youth Fired On as He Tries To Aid Couple on Road.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS Aug. 16—Crawford county officials are hunting a man and woman who attempted to rob Howard Neuman, 20, of the New Winchester road and then shot at him as he ran to his car after he had stopped to befriend them in response to a distress signal, about 10 o'clock Saturday night near the Desle avenue and Winchester road intersection.

The pair were in a car at the side of the road and Neuman who lives at the Dave Daiber home, stopped when the man flashed a light and asked him for a wrench and some tools to fix his car As he turned to his car the man stuck a revolver in his back and demanded his money and watch. Neuman turned and started to tussle with the man, when the woman appeared from behind the car. He then started to run toward his car, he told Sheriff Albert French, and three shots, which he believes were from a gun held by the woman, were fired Two of the bullets entered the rear window of his car The pair then started north and Neuman went to a nearby farmhouse and notified the sheriff The only description he was able to give the officers was the make of car they were driving and that the man was costless

COMMITTEE OKAYS APPROPRIATION BILL

$78,502,000 Measure Cut $42,899,520 from Budget Estimates.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Aug. 16 — The house appropriations committee recommended a $78,502,000 deficiency appropriation today after cutting $42,899,520 from budget estimates for the final major supply measure of this congress session.

Almost half the sum asked was sought for the administration's maintenance program that item which was eliminated, was $20,000,000

One of the largest items recommended was $23,000,000 to start a three-year public building program postoffice and other federal buildings outside the District of Columbia—which the committee said would cost $70,000,000

To carry out this work, the committee recommended that the secretary of the treasury be authorized to enter into contracts totaling $47,000,000. In addition to a direct appropriation of $23,000,000 A $23,000,000 item was recommended to pay federal land banks and the Farm Mortgage Corp for reduction of farm mortgage interest rates which congress approved over President Roosevelt's veto This amount was $7,050,000 less than the budget estimate, the committee explaining that it hoped the "greatly improved condition in agriculture" would tend to curtail new loans and increase repayment of old ones.

The committee eliminated a $10,000,000 appropriation asked for the new maritime commission "for budgetary reasons," but recommended authorization for the commission to make contracts totaling $150,000,000 in furtherance of its proposed $256,000,000 replacement program providing for 90 new vessels

The committee slashed $882,000 from $1,815,000 additional sought by the national labor relations board to handle an increase in its work

MRS. GUY CASE DIES SUDDENLY

Marion Woman Stricken by Heart Attack While Attending Reunion.

A heart attack suffered while attending a family reunion caused the sudden death of Mrs. [illegible] Barbara Case, 57, wife of [illegible] Case of 549 Blaine avenue, yesterday at 4:40 p. m. at the Worthington grange hall in Richland township.

Dr. M. F. Axtheim, county coroner, was called and gave his verdict following an examination of the body.

Mrs. Case and her family went to the reunion of Mrs Case's father's family, the Heimlichs, yesterday noon, and Mrs Case appeared to be feeling well. It was while the group was gathered for a program that Mrs. Case was stricken. She died instantly.

Her death was the first in a family of 11 children, nine of whom live in the vicinity of Marion.

Mrs. Case was an active member of the Emanuel Lutheran church. She was a member of the Women's Missionary society and the Adult Bible class and had taught the Daughters of Luther class for the last 25 years. Because of her death, the August meeting of the Adult Bible class, to have been held Tuesday night, will be dispensed with.

Surviving with the husband are a son, Carlton G. Case of Springfield, two granddaughters, Marilyn Joy and Sharon Lee Case, and 10 brothers and sisters, William J. Heimlich, John J. Heimlich and Wesley P. Heimlich, of near Cardington, Henry F. Heimlich of Richland township, Charles F. Heimlich and Mrs. Samuel Lehner of 1022 East Church street, Mrs. John Weist of LaRue, Mrs. Harper C. Seas of the Columbus-Sandusky road, Mrs. Charles Wick of east of King's Mills and Mrs. Samuel S. Schorr of Columbus.

Mrs. Case was born Aug. 6, 1880, in Richland township, to George Heimlich, a native of Alsace-Lorraine, Germany, and Barbara Augenstine Heimlich, a native of Germany. Her marriage to Mr. Case took place on Sept. 11, 1900 at Cardington.

The funeral will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Emanuel Lutheran church by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Schilliffger. Burial will be made in the Cardington cemetery. Friends may view the body at the home until 10 a. m. Wednesday and at the church from 11 a. m. until service time.

CINCINNATI WOMAN INDICTED FOR MURDER

identified Mrs. Hahn as a woman seen with Gsellman the night before his death. Mrs. Hahn denied knowing Gsellman but admitted, Schatile said, that she ministered to Wagner.

The indictments came as Capt. Hayes reported that 13 prescriptions for poisons and narcotics had been traced to Mrs. Hahn. He expressed belief the prescriptions, which bore the name of Dr. Arthur Vos, had been forged. Dr. Vos has offices in a house inherited by Mrs. Hahn from Ernst Kohler, elderly teamster who died in 1933.

Admits Giving Narcotics

Hayes said Mrs. Hahn admitted administering narcotics to Kohler but declared she did so under direction of Dr. Vos. The physician denied giving orders for narcotics in the Kohler case.

"Mrs. Hahn administered enough narcotics to Kohler to kill several men," Hayes charged. "She bought enough to kill a dozen persons, all within a few days."

Hayes said a will left by Wagner, but not witnessed, left his estate to Mrs. Hahn. He charged it was forged.

The detective chief said Mrs. Hahn, posing as Wagner's niece in probate court deputies, made funeral arrangements for him.

Schatile said Mrs. Hahn had been linked "either directly or indirectly" with fatalities which cast from the death in 1933 of Ernst Kohler, elderly teamster, to George Obendoerfer, moderately wealthy cobbler, who died Aug. 1 in Colorado Springs hospital. Kohler bequeathed her his home.

Hayes said he had uncovered evidence which indicated "she bought enough poison to kill half the town."

He displayed a small cardboard box bearing a red "poison" label but withheld it from close inspection. He said it contained pills. He also said he had talked with a druggist who told him Mrs. Hahn once sent her 12-year-old son, Oscar, to him with a request for a poison. Hayes said the druggist refused to deliver it because of the boy's age.

Besides the deaths of Gsellman found dead in bed July 6, Kohler and Obendoerfer, the list under investigation includes Albert Palmer, 72, and Jacob Wagner, 75, who died in March and June of 1937, respectively, and [illegible] Osswald, 75. Others under surveillance have not been disclosed.

U. A. W. Plans To Reorganize

By The Associated Press

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 16 — Ed Hall, second vice president of the United Automobile Workers of America, said today the national convention, scheduled to meet here Aug. 23 to 28, would reorganize the Automobile Workers' Union to exclude many of the locals now chartered.

"Weeding out of heterogeneous locals not directly connected with automobile, farm equipment or aviation industries, is action the convention certainly will take," Hall said. "The 'odds and ends' unions taken under its wing by the Automobile Workers International simply because they had no other place to go will be grouped in new internationals or separately chartered."

Hearings Open Against Weir

By The Associated Press

NEW CUMBERLAND, W. Va., Aug. 16—The CIO carried its fight against Ernest T. Weir, the steel master, almost into his back yard today.

Open hearing by the national labor realtions board of its charges that the Weirton Steel Co., founded by the industrialist, has terrorized and discharged union workers, brought scores of witnesses and spectators into the picturesque, red brick courthouse here.

Most of them travelled less than 10 miles up the Ohio river valley from the noisy, unincorporated city of Weirton, where more than 10,000 work for the steel company, to this quiet, rambling town.

Lawsuits Point To Delay In Tax Penalty Refunds

Auditors Clutch County Purse Strings Pending Decisions in Cases Before Courts.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 16—It began to look today as though most Ohioans who have paid penalties on delinquent property tax assessments in recent years will have a long wait before the money is refunded, if at all.

A new law effective Aug. 7 provided for the refunding of hundreds of thousands of dollars received from property owners who were delinquent in paying taxes in the six and one half year period ended last Jan. 1.

Already the new legislation is enmeshed in legal entanglements, much maligned by various public officials and a state-wide survey showed that most county auditors were reluctant to authorize return of the cash.

Only Two Will Refund

One said his county lacked funds and only two asserted they would authorize the refunds.

The county officials generally said they intended to keep a tight hold on the public purse strings until the courts and state officials clarify various provisions of the new statute now under dispute.

All the auditors questioned said they were watching with interest the outcome of suits in Franklin and Mahoning county courts attacking the new legislation. The Franklin county suit seeks to test the law's constitutionality.

Judge Erskine Maiden Jr., granted a temporary injunction in Youngstown last week against operation of the statute on the petition of Robert Nelson, a taxpayer. Nelson also has asked a permanent injunction to prevent County Auditor John J. Arnold from certifying $20,000 in refunds to George P. Lewis, county treasurer.

More Suits Awaited

The amount set forth in Nelson's second action is the sum represented by claims already filed in Mahoning county under the new law. Other suits appeared probable in various parts of the state. Taxpayers have until Jan. 1, 1940, to file applications.

Sen. Keith Lawrence, Democrat of Cuyahoga, in advocating the legislation asserted he had been informed thate statewide refunds would not be more than $300,000. State tax commission officials estimated that refunds in Cuyahoga county alone would approximate $1,000,000, but Chief Deputy Auditor George Asling of Cuyahoga county said they would exceed $1,500,000.

Only auditors in Rose and Richland counties indicated they intended to make refunds. Auditor William H. Herrnstein of the former county said payments would be made but that details had not been worked out for refunding the money.

Sets Total at $700

In the latter county, Auditor Norman Wolfe estimated that refunds would total only about $700.

"Most of the Richland county debt was paid four years ago when refunds totaling approximately $10,000 were made," Wolfe said. "Between that time and last January, delinquent tax payments lagged and in many cases the penalties and interest were not collected."

Counties selected at random in which auditors asserted payments would depend on the outcome of court actions already under way included Cuyahoga, Franklin, Summit, Licking, Fairfield, Marion, Clinton, Trumbull, Mahoning, and Union.

At least two county auditors have requested opinions from Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy on provisions of the refunder statute. One of them was Hale Shenefield of Lucas county and another was John H. Irwin of Columbiana county.

There was no indication from the attorney general's office as to just when the opinions would be forthcoming.

In Scioto county, Auditor Henry H. Eccles said that applications for refunds would be received but that the county was "broke" aside from bond payments, road funds and other mandatory expenses. At present only elective officials are sure of their salaries, he asserted.

Levy Defeated

He added that a 1.5 mill operating levy which probably would have solved the problem was snowed under the Aug. 10 primary.

The Cuyahoga county deputy said that he had been informed suits questioning the constitutionality of the new law will be filed by the county mayors' association and possibly by other organizations in the state.

The main reason why county auditors preferred to mark time on the refund question was indicated by Auditor Harry V. Mounts of Marion county. Mounts asserted that in the event the law should be declared unconstitutional refunds paid out could not be regained by the county.

The law was described as unconstitutional refunds paid out could not be regained by the county.

The law was described as unconstitutional by Fairfield County Auditor Irvin A. Miller, president of the State Association of County Auditors. Auditor Newton Thatcher of Franklin county termed it unfair.

Sen. Lawrence had urged the legislation as a means of equitable treatment to taxpayers who paid penalties during the depression. He said that the Whittemore act permits the payment of delinquent taxes in 10 installments without the assessment of penalties.

CRAWFORD COUNTY NATIVE STRICKEN

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Aug. 16 — Funeral services were held this afternoon at the Henderson & Lutz funeral home for Miss Wilda Ella Magers, 78, native of Crawford county, who died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Eugenia Knisely at Lima, Friday. Burial was made in Oakwood cemetery.

WOODEN SHOES MADE BY BELGIUM NATIVE

Tools Brought From Homeland Used To Carve Footwear.

By The Associated Press

BOWLING GREEN, O., Aug. 16—Shaped by tools in the fellow craftsmanship of August Debacker, 53-year-old native of Belgium who lives at Portage, a block of wood becomes a wooden shoe to be worn by women in their gardens or on the beach.

"Americans are very funny people. They like to be modernistic yet no matter how old a style maybe it is never too old to bring back a historic bit of wearing apparel," Debacker said.

He learned the trade when 15 years old, in Dhlalt, Belgium. He came to America in 1888 and after living in northwestern Ohio for 30 years returned to Belgium for a visit. When he came back last summer he brought a complete set of carving tools and again resumed an almost forgotten trade.

"I spend all my spare time in the work shop and turn out about three pairs of shoes a day. Pine or cottonwood make the best shoes but willow is still used in the old country," Debacker asserted.

APPLE CROP IN DELAWARE CO. GOOD

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., Aug. 16 — Delaware county's 1937 apple crop will be considerably larger than it was a year ago, orchardists predict. One orchardist, who said picking will start at his orchard about Oct. 1, estimated his crop at from three to four times larger than last year's. Rains have helped to make apples large in size and the wet weather has resulted in but little insect damage to the crop.

FORMER EMPLOYE OF STAR IS DEAD

Paul V. Oby Dies in Canton After Short Illness.

Paul V. Oby, 37, national advertising manager of The Canton Repository and former telegraph editor of The Marion Star, died Saturday at his home in Canton. The funeral service was conducted today in Canton, after which the body was taken to Cleveland for cremation.

Mr. Oby was taken ill Wednesday. What was believed to be a mild sore throat developed into lobar pneumonia and complications.

Mr. Oby was telegraph editor of The Star from Sept. 6, 1924, to April 17, 1925, and during his stay in Marion lived in the Cowan apartments. Following his graduation from Lafayette college at Easton, Pa., he worked on the Springfield Sun, The Star and the Ohio State Journal in Columbus. Returning to Canton where he had had summer employment on The Repository during his high school and college days, he resumed association with the newspaper in the advertising department. He became national advertising manager several years ago. His widow, two sons, his parents and two sisters survive.

TOWNSHIPS AND VILLAGES TO ELECT NEW OFFICIALS

Names Will Go on Ballot by Petition; Three Already Have Filed in Marion Township.

Now that city primaries have come and gone, officials of the county board of elections are laying the groundwork for filling 196 other offices, mostly in the rural part of the county.

Already three persons have filed petitions for the November election, two of them for Marion township trustee and one for township clerk.

The deadline for filing petitions is Sept. 2 at 6:30 p. m. The offices to be filled in addition to those affected by the city primary are mayor, marshal, clerk, treasurer and six council posts in each of the seven villages of the county; three trustees, a clerk and a constable in each of 15 townships; nine justices of the peace; three county school board posts, two city school board posts and two or three members of each of the 15 rural school boards in the county.

Three Have Filed

The three persons who have already filed petitions are A. W. Mason of 522 North State street, a Republican, seeking election to a four-year term as Marion township trustee, Addison Lutz of 182 Wallace street, also a Republican seeking a four-year term as trustee of Marion township, and A. W. Bryant of 560 Cleveland avenue, a Democrat, seeking election as Marion township clerk for a two-year period. Each petition was signed by approximately 150 persons the law per required for Marion township posts.

All candidates for the township, village and school offices will file on a non-partisan ticket, there being no party on the nominating petition to show the party politics of the candidate.

In general the petition must bear the names of at least one per cent of the voters who voted for governor in the last election in the governmental subdivision in which the office is sought, according to C. C. Rinkle, deputy clerk of the board of elections. In no instance must the number of names be less than 25.

Only two of the five city board of education positions must be filled this fall. The two members whose terms expire are Dr. F. L. Thomas and Harry J. Barnhart, vice president and president of the board, respectively.

On the county school board three terms expire, those of Samuel Ammendinger, president, and O. D. Kennedy and L. E. Mautz.

The number of positions to be filled on other school boards are: Caledonia, Green Camp, Marion, Pleasant, Scott, each two, and Claridon, Grand Prairie, Lafayette, Montgomery, Morral, Agosta (New Bloomington), Prospect, Tully and Waldo, each three.

Villages To Elect

The seven villages in the county, Agosta, Morral, Prospect, Waldo, Caledonia, Green Camp and Lafayette, each must elect a mayor, marshal, clerk, treasurer and six councilmen.

The townships will begin a new system this fall as a result of a state law passed this spring. In each township this fall two trustees will be elected for four years and a third trustee and one clerk for two years. Two years from this fall only one trustee will be elected for four years and clerk for four years.

The new system is designed to stagger the terms as those of county commissioners are now arranged.

All trustees and clerks in each township are facing reelection this fall, according to election officials. Townships must also elect constables. Justices of the peace are to be elected in Big Island, Bowling Green, Grand Prairie, Green Camp, Prospect, Scott, Tully and Waldo townships for four-year terms.

ORE SHIPMENTS HIT NEW PEAK

5,495,185 Tons in July Tops All Records Including That of 1929.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 15—July iron ore shipments from docks to furnaces established an all-time high with 5,495,185 tons. The previous record of 5,212,295 was set in August, 1929.

Shipments to date were 17,164,459 tons, a new all time high. For the same date last year they were 10,161,180. July receipts at Lake Erie docks were 7,555,252 tons compared with 7,562,078 the previous month and 5,663,963 a year ago. Season's receipts to date are 22,641,729 tons against 12,406,570 a year ago.

Ore on docks has shown a single increase for the first time this season, but is still below that of a year ago. Dock stocks Aug. 1 were 3,851,416 tons compared with 3,328,252 in June and 4,015,613 a year ago.

The normal dock balance at the end of the navigation season usually is approximately 5,000,000 tons, with an additional 20,000,000 tons at furnaces. Supplies at docks and furnaces are estimated about 5,000,000 tons below a year ago.

Cleveland received the largest amount of ore last month, 1,759,212 tons against Conneaut's 1,730,427, the leader in June.

Loadings of coal at docks for the week ended Aug. 9 of 1,214,126 showed a decrease over those of the previous week which were 1,418,172. Loadings for the season to date are 25,461,865 tons compared with the previous high of 22,362,114 tons during a similar period a year ago.

Light shipments of coal, however, have accelerated the ore movement as ships are able to make the turn around from the northern ore ports in much less time when they go up light.

A new record for ore iron ship-

[illegible] made in one month was established at the Soo during June when 11,043,225 tons passed through the locks. Total freight shipments for the month were 47,027,526 tons, 9% ahead of the 1929 movement.

The name of the Wilson Transit Freight Powhatan was changed to the Charles A. Paul, in honor of a director of the firm. The Optimist, ocean steamer Harvey D. Goulder was renamed the J. Clare Miller in honor of a vice president of the American Rolling Mills of Middletown, O.

Death of Capt. C. M. Conkey of Port Huron, Mich., master of the steamer Thomas Lamont, Jr., one of the Pittsburgh Steamship Co. fleet, necessitated numerous changes in command of vessels of the company.

3 UNHURT AS CAR DOES ACROBATICS

Three Marion youths escaped injury late Sunday afternoon when the car in which they were riding overturned, rolled back onto its wheels and came to a stop head on in the opposite direction, a deputy of Sheriff Fred F. Miller reported.

The deputy said the car, heading south, apparently got out of control when a tire blew out, pulling the car into the grass along the side of the road. The mishap occurred about 4 p. m. one mile north of Newmans.

Donald Landon of near Marion route 95 was driving the car and Names of the other occupants were not learned. The car was smashed, windows broken and cloth and wheels damaged. A broadside-German aviation [illegible] was rental shed a [illegible] [illegible] between Peiping [illegible]

CHAPTER ONE

Lovers Quarrel Over a 'Crook'

THE two were walking fast up Charles street in Baltimore, not looking where they were going. It was the hour when the better shops closed, and everybody was bound homeward. Many people turned their heads to glance after the good-looking pair: the young man, tall, broad-shouldered, with curly black hair and a notable look of resolution in his dark eyes; the girl,tall also for her sex, brown-haired, peach-skinned, with that special quality of beauty that makes a man feel helpless. They were quarreling.

"He's old enough to be your father," said Neill.

"He's not!" retorted Janet. "He's only 39!"

"That's what he says!"

"You're just being hateful."

"You know nothing about this matter. What does a girl know about any of the men she goes around with? He's an amusing companion. That's all that concerns me."

"You mean he spends his money on you."

"That's a nasty thing to say!" I believe he's a crook."

"You have no reason to say such a thing. You're only jealous."

"Jealous! Of that? If that's what you want...."

"I don't want him!"

"I say he's a crook! I can trust my hunches in such matters. That's my business."

"You have never seen him!"

"I'm judging just by what you have told me about him."

"You're jealous!" she said again.

"I'm not jealous; I'm sore!"

Janet laughed angrily. "What's the difference?"

"Plenty of difference. I'm not the jealous type. You and I can't be together much. Well, I don't expect you to sit home nights when I'm not here. I've always encouraged you to have a good time, and you know it!"

"Then what are you fussing about?"

"This guy Prescott Fanning sticks in my crop. He's not one of us. He's too old for you; he spends too much money; he's too slick!"

"Oh, for heaven's sake! People are always warning me against poor Prescott as if I were a school girl! I can take care of myself."

"Somebody else has warned you?" he asked quickly.

"He had no more to go on than you have."

"Who was it?"

"A lawyer here named Horace Kettering. A friend of my father's."

"What did he say?"

"Very much the same that you have said. When I pinned him down, he hadn't anything definite against Prescott."

"Anyhow, I should think you would listen to a friend of your father's."

Janet did not answer.

'Put Yourself In My Place'

Presently Neill said gloomily: "Why do we have to quarrel?"

She looked away. She was softened, but she wouldn't let him see it. "You started it."

"I'm sorry for some of the things I said...But you must admit that I've got reason to feel sore. Try to put yourself in my place. ..Yesterday I made the biggest capture of the year in our department. I put Luciano Rosazzo behind the bars. You know who he is, the head of the narcotic ring in New York. He's the guy who poisons the young lads with his filthy snow; even high school children.

"Well, I felt pretty pleased with myself. I've been after him for nine months. And today when I came down to Washington to report, my chief slapped me on the back and promised to give me a district on January first. 'Son, you've earned a vacation,' he said. 'Take a week off and enjoy yourself. Go some place where you're not known, and be low, because this Rosazza guy has powerful friends who will be looking for you.'

"So I came over to Baltimore to be with you. Riding the crest of the wave! Why, I haven't had a whole week at a time with you in two years. Gosh! Was I happy? And what did I find? That you had gone and got your head turned by this old guy, Fanning! Is it any wonder I'm sore?"

"Don't be absurd!" said Janet with fresh anger. "He isn't old and I haven't got my head turned!"

"Don't you like me any more?" he asked diffidently.

"Oh, I suppose I do. But when you make me angry, how can I feel it? What kind of a life would we have together if we got married and you flew off the handle every time I spoke to another man?"

"I don't fly off the handle every time. It's only Fanning. He's a crook!"

"He isn't a crook! And I'm not going to let anybody talk to me like that! I left a good home and went to work and supported myself on my earnings so that I could be free and independent. If my people wish me to be on my own, I'm not going to let you dictate to me."

Neill looked at her longingly. "We mustn't quarrel," he said, low-voiced. "Our time together is so short."

"I don't want to quarrel," she said, lowering her head, "but you won't let me call my soul my own."

"I love you," he said.

"That's not the right way to show it."

"Look," he said, "let's be quiet and sensible. Tell me more about Fanning. Who are his friends?"

"He knows everybody. One of his most intimate friends is Gerald Bromley, the manager of the Cecil-Calvert."

"Anybody can be friends with a hotel manager."

"Now, you're being hateful again."

"Sorry," said Neill. "What's in that box under your arm?"

"A new evening dress."

"Another?"

"It was returned by a customer and Madame Annette let me have it for next to nothing."

"I suppose you're going to wear it tonight."

"Certainly."

Neill got sore all over again. "Damn!"

They walked a block in silence.

"Look, Jen," he said persuasively. "Break this date with Fanning and wear the new dress for me tonight, Lord! You don't know how much it means to me! My first night with you. I rushed over from Washington all primed for it. And I only have a week."

"I'm sorry," she said. "It's impossible. I didn't know you were coming. This little party was got up for me and all the arrangements have been made. I can't get out of it now."

Neill was filled with an intolerable sense of injury. "Well, the hell with it then," he muttered. "I'd better leave you before I say something that I'll be sorry for."

"I'm not keeping you."

They parted abruptly. Before he had taken 20 steps, Neill looked longingly over his shoulder. But Janet was still marching ahead, eyes front, and he scowled and kept on. A second after he had looked, Janet looked over her shoulder, all ready to run to meet him, but Neill was looking ahead then and she kept on. Neither would look again.

'Everybody Knows Fanning'

Neill strode back down Charles street with a burning coal at the pit of his stomach. The one thing clear to him was that he must immediately make good his words that Prescott Fanning was a crook. Where could he find out something about him? Neill was not well acquainted in Baltimore.

Janet had let fall two names. The first was Horace Kettering. Neill turned into the first drug store he came to and looked up the telephone number of Kettering's office. He was too late. They told him that Mr. Kettering had left for the day. Neill then called up his house in the suburb of Guildford but with no better luck. Mr. Kettering was not expected home to dinner.

The other man Janet had mentioned was the manager of a well known hotel. Not difficult to get hold of him. Neill entered the marble-floored lobby of the Cecil-Calvert and asked at the desk for Mr Bromley.

"He's in the bar if you don't mind stepping in there," said the clerk.

Neill didn't mind. It was easy to pick out Mr Bromley where he stood in the bar with a group of friends, because with his immaculate grooming and his air of good fellowship he looked like nothing in the world but a hotel manager. It occurred to Neill that he had better conceal his hand in this matter, so he ordered a drink and watched his opportunity.

Presently Mr. Bromley strolled away from his friends. As he came by, Neill nodded to him in a friendly fashion.

"Hello," said Bromley. "Do I know you?"

"Walter Patton is the name. I have stopped here before a couple of times, but I suppose you see so many faces you can't remember them all."

"It's a fact," said Bromley.

"Will you have one with me?" asked O'Neill.

Mr. Bromley, having had a couple, was not averse to increasing the load a little. They drank.

Having thus broken the ice, Neill was able to ask. "Do you know a man called Prescott Fanning?"

"Sure. Everybody knows Fanning."

"What sort of fellow is he?"

"Oh, an all-round sport, swell-looking guy; built like an athlete, elegant dresser; free with his money; a general favorite."

MANSFIELD MAN HURT IN ACCIDENT

Summer Food.

Contrary to common belief, diarrhea continues to be an ever-present ailment of infants during the summer months. The disease is not as frequently encountered as in former years. But leading baby specialists point out that it still a problem of the utmost importance.

As a rule, the occurrance of diarrhea in a young child can be traced to the use of spoiled milk. When any food or beverage is permitted to become contaminated, its consumption leads to deranged digestion and irritation of the intestinal tract. Such disturbances are too often due to neglect in properly protecting the baby's milk and other food during hot weather.

Since contamination of food is more liable to occur during the summer months, it is advisable that special precautions be taken at this time of the year. Every effort should be taken to guard the diet of the infant during hot weather. This is equally advisable for the adult, but is absolutely imperative if the infant is to be saved from infection.

In addition to protecting the food from flies, dust and putrefaction, the child should be guarded against excessive heat and sunlight. On a hot day the youngster ought to be sponged or bathed at frequent intervals. Infants should be kept in the shade and older children should be restrained from excessive play in the sun.

The nursing infant is protected by guarding the mother against intestinal upsets. During hot weather her diet should be simple and nutritious. Yet, it must contain those food elements that help develop strong, sturdy bones. It is best to include in the diet during hot weather an abundance of milk, fresh fruits and vegetables.

At times diarrhea may occur despite every precaution. Under such circumstances it is necessary to look beyond the food for the cause. It may be the result of enlarged and diseased tonsils and adenoids, or, perhaps, infections of the nose, throat or ears. When such an infection is present, the germs are absorbed into the system and ultimately carried to the alimentary canal where irritation and inflammation soon take place.

The young victim of this condition appears extremely ill. He is irritated, cross and has no interest in food. Fever is present, the youngster vomits and has the characteristic loose stools. These have a putrid odor, are soft, greenish in color, and contain a great deal of mucus.

Do not resort to home treatments, and, above all, do not give any medicine unless it is prescribed by a physician. Bear in mind that certain complications may set in within twenty-four hours after the appearance of the first symptoms. Neglect is dangerous.

WYANDOT COUNTY HOME BURNS DOWN

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Aug. 16—The tenant home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Forman on the Charles Wiest farm near Little Sandusky, was destroyed by fire Friday midnight. The Forman family was away at the time, the fire having spread over most of the building when neighbors were aroused. None of the furniture or household goods could be saved. The origin of the blaze has not been determined. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Neill swallowed this with a wry face. "Where's he from?"

"New York banker. Investment houses."

"Have you ever investigated him?"

"Wasn't any need to. He hasn't tried to sell me anything."

"But I was told he was an intimate friend of yours."

"Good God, man, a mere acquaintance like 10,000 others."

Neill finds a strange little man who knows Fanning, tomorrow.

CHAPTER FIFTY-THREE

Confession

WHEN Zeke Farley and his companions rounded a curve and came to the designated place, they stopped short with surprise at the sight of the extraordinary group waiting to receive them.

Stepping in front of the girls, Ted told his story.

"I brought Josh Hastings along in the hopes he'd confess," he ended. "But I reckon I can convince a jury without him."

A groan from Josh Hastings brought all eyes to him, as a convulsive shudder shook his frame, and tiny flecks of foam appeared at his lips.

"He's had another stroke!" Kay exclaimed. "Quick! Get him off!"

In a thrice they had lifted him to the ground. Kay took sudden command of the situation, and motioned them all a few paces away as Josh Hastings' eyes opened. She knelt beside him.

Just In Time

"You're going to die, Josh Hastings," she declared solemnly, her eyes holding him with hypnotic intensity, "and Ruth will be left all alone. If you will tell the truth about Scrap Johnson's death, I swear that I'll take care of her."

Josh Hastings' eyes wandered from Kay to Zeke Farley and Tom Runyon behind her, then to Ted. A sullen triumph gleamed through their glazed terror.

"I won't talk!" he declared, with sudden vindictive strength.

"Then Ruth must be alone in the world and fend for herself!" Kay's voice was inexorable and gave no quarter.

"Damn you! Have it your own way, then!" His eyes clouded as a convulsive tremor shook him. Kay beckoned Zeke Farley closer. "Go on!"

"I killed Scrap Johnson, because he pulled a dirty trick on me!" Josh Hastings gasped out his confession. "And I framed Gaynor because I hated him, and I intended to have him proved a murderer to you. And what's more, I burned your ranch house, because...." His face contracted in a horrible grimace, and he fell back.

Zeke Farley sprang to him, and put a hand on his heart. After a moment of breathless silence, he turned to Kay.

"You were just in time," he announced. "He's dead."

With an inarticulate cry, Kay rose to her feet and flung herself into Ted's arms.

Tom Runyon, who had been watching the whole dramatic scene from a distance, swung into his saddle. He silently pushed past the group on the trail, and without a backward look, headed down for Clear Water Basin. For a long moment, his horse's hoof beats were the only sounds to break the silence.

With sudden radiance, the first rays of the sun caught the tops of the peaks, announcing the arrival of a new day. To the southeast a heavy cloud of smoke smothered the ridges, but above and ahead of them, all was clear.

"That is the past and the future!" Marion spoke in an awed whisper, as she looked from the obscurity of the eastern ridges to the bright promise of the western peaks, towering above them.

Kay raised her head from Ted's shoulder, but before following Marion's look her eyes anxiously sought Zeke Farley. He nodded a sympathetic assent to her unspoken question.

"He's free, all right!" He motioned his men to take Josh Hastings' body and go ahead. A grin of satisfaction spread over his face as Kay slipped her hand through Ted's arm and faced him with radiantly happy eyes.

"How about coming back with me?" He cocked a quizzical eye at Marion. "I'll send up a couple of cayuses for those two. I reckon they won't mind waiting!"

"I'd love to! I want to get back as soon as possible." Marion eagerly accepted his suggestion, and before Kay or Ted could remonstrate, she kissed her hand to them and sprang up before Zeke Farley.

A moment later, and they had followed the rest around a bend in the trail, leaving Kay and Ted alone with the sunrise.

"Sweetheart!" Ted held Kay away for a moment, as he gazed at the bright glory of her hair in the morning sunlight that now included them in its golden radiance. "Marion is right! The future is ours!"

He pulled her gently to him, and for a breathless interval, future and past were forgotten in the magic of the present.

THE END

Marriage Meddlers

BY ADELE GARRISON

Carolyn and Marion Spring Surprise on Grown-Ups.

WE DID not have to wait long to find out what knowledge of the "Canadian invasion" Marion and Carolyn possessed.

With mischief-filled faces and sparkling eyes, they were patently enjoying themselves to the full as they advanced into the living room. Putting their arms akimbo, they surveyed us all with the impudent amusement found in full flower of perfection only in modern young women.

"Do you know you are the most transparent darlings?"

This was Marion's first contribution to the gaiety of the occasion.

"Positively diaphanous," Carolyn supplemented with a giggle.

"I'm one up on you, Pats," she went on, turning to her "roomie" with a judicial air. "Diaphanous has one more syllable than 'transparent'. Do I go to the head of the class?"

"Look here, young women!" Harry Underwood growled ferociously. "We can be pushed just so far. If you don't look out, I shall haul both of you over my ample knees, pick up my number eleven and so forth slipper, and give you what you've been needing lo! these many moons."

"We're perfectly willing to listen while you gloat over whatever you think you have to gloat over—I'll give a lead quarter to anybody who can parse that—but we don't want any trimmings or invidious comments. If you have any real information to impart to us, we are all ears, but we can dispense with all the frills."

For answer, they looked at each other significantly, and then defiantly caroled in chorus. "Who's afraid of the big bad wolf?" while they dodged out of reach. Marion slipping behind her stepfather's chair and Carolyn taking up a wary position between Lillian and me.

"You're dead right we're gloating," Carolyn said, "because we certainly had a box seat at this party. We'd been lying awake wondering when Uncle Dicky would telephone or telegraph about the boys. Then Uncle Harry came in and began, and Aunt Lillian said 'Sh' and you didn't remember that there are mirrors in that room which showed every expression of your faces. Boy! but that was some bit of impromptu ghost writing that Uncle Dicky."

She finished with so pretty an air of triumphant malice, an expression which Marion was also displaying, that we could not feel resentful.

Saw Auto, Too

"Don't shoot! We'll come down," Mr. Underwood capitulated. "And we'll also bite, for I know you're simply yearning to be asked this question: How in the hinges of the hot place did you know that the Dicky-bird was trailing the Canadian boys?"

A look of impish delight flashed into both girlish faces.

"Oh, that was the best of all," Marion said. "My darling Mums evidently thought she had the only pair of eyes in the party. Carol and I spotted that Canadian car as soon as we got in the yard. We saw it often enough, goodness knows, while we were in Canada.

"But I really think, Mums, you were hard on the poor boys when you were talking about the thing which made you rush us away from there. You talked as if you'd seen either a leper or a polecat. And we were so doubled up laughing inside that we almost forgot to watch to see if the boys would chance to come out. Wouldn't that have been a scream, though?"

The girls doubled up again with laughter, and we oldsters looked at each other with a question in our eyes. Why had they not exchanged over the Canadian car, and insisted upon seeing the unfortunate who had been so attentive to them?

Slow Down.

It will be of interest to some Ohio motorists to know that a new law requiring them to slow down to 20 miles an hour passing schools where children are entering and leaving and to slow down to 35 miles in driving through residential districts, now is in effect in Ohio.

It should interest all Ohio motorists, but it won't. A large number of them will be indifferent. For their sake, it will be necessary to make a large number of arrests and to impose fines until their minds finally respond automatically to the sight of a schoolhouse or a residential district where children are playing.

This law has been passed in an attempt to save life. Until a better slogan is devised, here's one with a lot of meaning: "The American love of speed is the greatest cause of accidents." That happens to be the conclusion reached by Amos O. Neyhart, originator of the first academic course in safe driving ever offered to students.

The possibility of death when automobiles are moving slowly is negligible. The probability that a driver will have better control of his car at 20 than at 60 miles an hour is vastly greater. Safe driving in Ohio is brought a little closer by the lower limit on legal speeds in school zones and residential areas.

Sen. Black on a Spot.

Pictures show Sen. Black smiling happily over his appointment to the supreme court. It is a great and unexpected honor which has come to him.

It is possible, however, that in his heart Sen. Black may be heavily aware of certain things that do not make him feel like smiling. Politics has put him on a spot.

He knows he received the appointment because of his voting record on new deal legislation; he has no evident qualification as a supreme court justice.

He knows he will be expected to continue as a supporter of the new deal. Failure to do so, whatever his own convictions might be, would bring down on his head abuse far more severe than that being directed at any member of the court during the attack on it by new dealers.

Sen. Black knows it will not always be easy to discover what new dealers are thinking. He knows they will not always be thinking the same things. Ahead of him stretch years of uncertainty during which he must decide whether to try to be true to himself or to the political group which elevated him to the court.

Sen. Black may become one of the great justices of the supreme court—another Oliver Wendell Holmes, perhaps. That is for time and the circumstances of politics during the next several decades to tell. Whatever happens, though, he has been placed in one of the most difficult positions ever occupied by an appointee—a position which robs him for the moment of the genuine satisfaction of knowing a great honor has been bestowed upon him with the sincere approval of men whose opinions he respects.

Vote! Vote!

Hollywood is, as babes in arms know, the world's film capital. It's the glamor headquarters of the western hemisphere. The name is a synonym for moving pictures.

There are several things wrong with these cherished beliefs. There is no town in California named Hollywood, but only a section of Los Angeles bearing that name. Hollywood does not appear in the postal guide, the census reports.

The majority of movies are made in Culver City. Most of the stars live in Beverly Hills, on the coast or up in the hills. Hollywood is nothing but a legend built on the fact that it was the first site of some of the important studios.

Culver City is taking steps to swipe Hollywood's name, and Hollywood ans are furious. It wouldn't take movie fans long to decide, though. They would have two Hollywoods, in honor of the double feature.

If Iowa Insists.

Iowa is the greatest corn producing state in the union. No one disputes that. It doesn't follow, however, that Iowa produces the greatest corn. Take Ohio, for instance.

Ohio takes corn in its stride. This state's interests are diversified. It is third in industry, but it could make out all right in farming if it had to.

The point is that Iowa and Ohio are having an argument over tall corn. This state, more or less in jest, has asked Iowa to give up its title, "the state where the tall corn grows." In Fike county it seems, they've raised some corn 17 feet and more tall, while out in Iowa they're boasting about 16 foot stalks.

The truth is, Ohio doesn't really want to take the title from Iowa, but merely would like Hawkeyes to admit that Buckeyes know a few things about field corn. However, if they don't want to play nice, it may become necessary to tell the secret of Ohio's tall corn.

In this state, one third of the stalk is beneath the ground like the foundation of a skyscraper—and that part hasn't even been measured yet. If Iowa insists, Ohio corn growers will go into this thing seriously.

The Demand for Crop Loans

BY MORGAN M. BEATTY
Associated Press Feature Service Writer

In his WHAT IT MEANS style Morgan Beatty tells what's behind the sudden clamor among farm-state lawmakers for passage of new agricultural legislation this session.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16—It seems as though Dame Nature doesn't care a crop of hot flashes how the vote goes in Pumpkin Hollow township.

There's [illegible] for reason a lot of congressmen who were yelling for adjournment a while back now are demanding help for their farmers.

And it's in line with the policy of Low Frank-lin D. Roosevelt at long last has found whip to use on the querulous 1937 congress.

This year, Dame Nature trotted out by smiling on all the farmers and all the congressmen. It looked as if she would not only provide a bumper crop all around, but the crop would command the best prices since the depression.

Congress At Ease

Congressional committees in charge of agricultural legislation sort of leaned back in their chairs, comfortable like. Congressional farm experts took a good deal of credit for what Dame Nature was doing and decided to pass up a general farm aid program this year.

Not so Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and his chief, Mr. Roosevelt. They pointed to the last three disastrous years and demanded a program to void the pillage and arrows of outrageous fortune by providing farmers with a steady market.

So long as 1937 promised a big crop and high prices, congressmen weren't interested.

But The Tune Changes

But it was just then that Dame Nature switched over to the President's side. When official crop reporters reported the sixth largest cotton crop in American history the market dropped about $2 a bale.

"We want crop loans for our farmers," yelped farm and cotton belt congressmen, who have to get elected next year.

"Well, and good," replied President Roosevelt in effect, "but first what assurance have I that these loans won't upset my budget next year? And furthermore, can these farmers pay the loans back without some law to control production?"

So, with the connivance of Dame Nature, the President had 'em in a corner. That's where they are now.

A Bit Of History

The whole thing worked this way.

When the first Roosevelt administration came into Washington, the farmers were raising huge surpluses of all the major crops. Naturally they were getting ruinous prices. Congress immediately pulled the AAA out of a hat, levying special taxes against the people who prepare crops for consumption. These taxes in turn went to the farmers.

But the supreme court threw that whole scheme out the constitutional window.

Then came the soil conservation scheme. Mainly, it paid farmers government money not to plant cotton, wheat and other so-called basic crops. It was evident from the start that this, too, was emergency legislation that would not work on a permanent basis.

Comes 1937

That brings us up to 1937 and Secretary Wallace's ever-normal granary scheme. That plan would put the government in the crop storage business in bumper crop years, and in the marketing business in lean years.

But the government also would control production by penalizing farmers who failed to come in on the scheme. Such farmers, for instance, would not be eligible for federal loans or benefits in bumper years, when prices fell off.

In other words, the government would try to stabilize the broad swing of prices for both farmers and consumers and to eliminate the gambling that must attend uncontrolled and unpredictable production.

Congress Over A Barrel

Congress has been chary of the scheme. Some reputable economists insist that the idea would work only on paper. They cite the failure of the British rubber control scheme and the absurd system in Brazil, where about half the coffee crop is destroyed by the government every year to keep the price up.

Other economists also insist the Wallace idea would work just like the Hoover farm board plan worked. The Hoover board found itself always buying crops and seldom selling them, because the price never got right.

Secretary Wallace insists his scheme is different. He says it has none of the flaws of past control measures, and it's saving features would be demonstrated in lean years when prices would be bound to improve.

Anyhow it looks like farm-state lawmakers may have to swallow the Wallace-Roosevelt control plan if they want crop loans for their voters. And for either or both they may have to stay in session a while longer.

About Congressman

Unless the usual outward signs fail, congressmen soon will close up legislative shop and travel homeward. What do they do between sessions? Not too seriously, the Washington bureau of The Associated Press suggests some possibilities in three stories of which this is the first.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16—A hitchhiker can get across the country by wiggling his thumb and forgetting the law—congressmen can do it by wagging their tongues and remembering the law.

Long ago they talked the government into furnishing them with big pine boxes in which they can ship just about everything free except the wife and kiddies. This was in addition to their own travel pay.

One legislator got into a jam with his extra-curricular chiming. Bought a cow and tried to ship her home without charge.

Unfortunately, there is no sure way to identify lawmakers away from their natural habitat—the Capitol. There is no such thing as a uniform of congress, and the members don't wear tags no matter what you hear.

To help you identify the 50-odd senators and representatives who are about to descend upon the nation we drop these hints:

1. Their weight usually runs to the upper registers of the scales.

2. They wear big hats, broad smiles and smoke large cigars.

3. Their voices are firm, unfaltering and generally loud.

4. They are likely to address you as friend, neighbor, or brother.

All this applies to male senators and representatives. There is absolutely no way to describe women legislators.

If the congressmen encounter you by automobile, there is a way to tell. Their cars carry little blue and white plates which announce:

"75th congress."

Note to traffic cops—You can't arrest them en route to or from congress.

Note to hotel proprietors—They get special rates lots of places and they know it if you don't.

KENNEBUNK BEACH, Me., Aug. 16—Kenneth Roberts, purveyor of historical truth in fiction, no longer rubs the stomachs of rotund Chinese idols for luck when sending manuscripts to publishers.

But in his earlier and leaner years, the author of "Northwest Passage" and his wife massaged images of Motel, god of happiness, before mailing stories.

ROBERTS

Roberts has about 10 of the smiling idols, fashioned from China, bronze and other materials, in the Kennebunk Beach home and in his roomy and book-crammed studio which once was an old stable. There the tanned, six-foot writer does most of his work.

The novelist, whose "Northwest Passage" is now in its eighth edition, sets himself a daily stint of 1,200 to 2,000 handwritten words, which he rewrites and revises several times.

"Northwest Passage," he says, "required three years work for the reader to understand in two days."

He delved into the hardest kind of research, sifting out mistakes, piecing scattered accounts, collecting historical detail through innumerable sources to arrive at the truth of the time and its people.

Caught Many Errors

He checked his source books and documents, one with another, annotating each with pertinent marginalia, pungently caustic at times, in his hunt for the truth.

One historian, he discovered, had written that the retreat of Gen. St. Clair from Fort Ticonderoga in July, 1777, occurred during a full moon.

Roberts found a contemporary almanac which disclosed the moon was new on that date and therefore set early in the evening. On such regard for historical accuracy his writings are built.

"You have a feeling you've done something when you've done a historical novel," he says. "In putting fact into fiction, it's got to hold water."

A Book A Day

By JOHN SELBY

A COUPLE of decades past John Erskine was a professor at Columbia University with a reputation for wit, as a lecturer, and as a musician—albeit dilettante.

Dr. Erskine has been a number of things since those days. He still lectures a bit. Fifteen years ago, approximately, he decided to play piano really well. So he worked hard at it, and accepted quite a lot of professional engagements. Accepted so many that a certain professional pianist complained sharply to the writer that Erskine was taking bread and presumably butter out of the mouths of musicians who had not so many strings to their bows.

For Dr. Erskine not only was teaching, lecturing, and playing piano; he was writing some delightful modern versions of some ancient legends, not merely essays and occasional poems and similar professional productions. In the midst of it all, he became head of the Juilliard School of Music some 10 years ago, and a power in the musical politics of New York and the country at large.

Now Dr. Erskine has resigned his posts and plans to do nothing but write and a spot of lecturing, presumably. The first product of the new leisure is something called "The Brief Hour of Francois Villon," and although such matters are dangerously the prey of individual tastes, this writer thinks it far better than any recent Erskine literary production. Even though it is a little difficult to say what it actually is.

Probably it is a novel. Certainly it continues the Erskine literary obsession with love in its more carnal aspect. But it is not so drearily clever as some of its predecessors, and one could scarcely write of Villon without writing of frankly sensual things. Dialogue and certain other features of the period have been brought down to date. Adventure follows adventure with rather monotonous regularity. The end is a little theatrical in its autumnal coloring and sudden, though not unexpected, filip.

But the effect, even if superficial, is witty and wise.

Spoils in The Supreme Court

BY DOROTHY THOMPSON

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—The appointment of Senator Black to the supreme court is cheap. I can find no other one word to apply to it. Taking advantage of the senate's club spirit—and of the senate's own cheap promotion of Senator Robinson for the post, for the purpose of putting the President in a hot spot—Mr. Roosevelt has pulled another smart trick. Or is it so smart? It confirms those who have opposed the court packing bill in the conviction that the President does not want to liberalize the supreme court but to abolish it, by turning it into a chorus of yes-men for the executive and congress. The political result will be to make the new deal opposition in congress stronger, and more timorous of passing any kind of social legislation.

Let us say clearly that where the present court has been divided, this column has almost always agreed with the minority of dissenting judges. It has agreed because of respect for the quality of their minds, the breadth of their spirits, their learning, and the logic and reason of their arguments. This appointment is not merely an attack on the supreme court—by sending to it a man who does not believe in its essential function. It is a blow to democratic government—because the biggest problem of democracies is how to keep alive respect for intellectual integrity and rational processes. An honest conservative could have accepted the appointment to the supreme court of Judge Learned Hand, or Dean Clark of Yale, or Professor Corwin of Princeton, or Professor Felix Frankfurter, or Donald Richberg. All of these men are eminent liberal jurists, who believe in constitutional government and know what it is. Honest conservatives, whose concern is not the protection of existing interpretations of property rights, but is the protection of reason and dignity in American institutions, should, and have been proud of the presence on the bench of Justices Brandeis, Cardozo, and Stone. But Senator Black is not in their category. Rather is he in the category of Justice McReynolds, who was also a political appointee, and has not developed, but offers dissenting opinions in the form of die-hard orations. We can expect the same kind of non-judicial oratory from Senator Black.

Does any one who has ever heard Senator Black conduct an inquiry believe that his is the judicial temper? When he emerts at some one, called supposedly as an expert, to testify in the Wages and Hours hearings, "Aren't you an anti-New Dealer?" As though no man's opinion were worth anything unless he shared the Senator's social and political views.

What is the function of the supreme court, and what qualities of mind and spirit should characterize its judges? Let us not ask conservatives. Let us turn to eminent and famous Liberals. Says Justice Cardozo, answering the first question, in his brilliant and beautiful little book, "The Function of the Judicial Process":

"The utility of an external power, restraining legal judgment is not to be measured by counting the occasions of its exercise. The great ideals of liberty and equality are preserved against the assaults of opportunism, the expediency of the passing hour, the erosion of small encroachments, the scorn and derision which have no patience with general principles, by enshrining them in constitutions, and consecrating to their protection a body of defenders. By conscious or subconscious influence, the presence of this power, aloof in the background tends to stabilize and rationalize the legislative judgment, to infuse it with the glow of principle, to hold the standard aloft and visible, for those who must run the race and keep the faith."

Somehow I can't see Senator Black preserving great ideals against the erosion of small encroachments, or being consecrated to the defense of anything except his leader's policy.

Big Business in Post Cards

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—In the manner of Arnold Bennett's journal: One never thinks of a native Hawaiian reading an American column. But some time ago there appeared in these notes, published in Honolulu, a paragraph of praise for the playwright Clare Booth Luce. She post-cards:

"Riding tandem on a surf board at the rate of 40 miles an hour across a monster wave this morning I heard my dark Hawaiian beach boy, riding behind me on the board, shout into my ear: 'Hey, you see what McIntyre say about you in the newspaper this morning?'"

Until the other day I rather pitied the stationers who had to load up their shops with Christmas and greeting cards. It seemed such a petty trade. But a small dealer in West 32d street tells me he sells about $65,000 worth every season. A half dozen clients buy $1,500 worth apiece to send customers.

The moot question in ethics bobbed up at breakfast. If you could kill a hated enemy ten thousand miles away without being caught, would you do it. In the quick urge of a high rage many, perhaps, would but most of us would not. Murder is chiefly the flare of lightning impulse.

Something frightening about the evanescence of public acclaim. At the Madison avenue news reel a few years ago M. and I were shocked by the boos and jeers when Hoover was flashed. We set down the date. It was a day in October four years ago. The subject of witches has always fascinated. We had two stooped, hook-nosed ladies in our town with piercing eyes who suggested riding away on brooms. One lived over an ice house reached by a ladder and smoked a clay pipe. I used to watch her silhouetted against the kerosene lamplit window at night with goose pimple imaginings. An interesting city to me is Salem, Mass., on account of its witch lore. I have spent hours exploring Gallows Hill. How enlightened the world! Once a universal belief in witches. In 50 years, 100,000 witches were consigned to flames in Germany. One authority estimates the total killed in Europe at nine million. But superstition still needs booting. In Harlem a fortune is spent yearly among voodoo fakers. For such nostrums as "Getting a Job Powders," "Keeping Your Husband Powders" and "Renting Your Room Powders."

Italy Planning Eugenics Test

Higher Birth Rate Sought in Nationwide Experiment

By [illegible]
International News Service

ROME, Aug. 16—Italy is about to embark on a nationwide experiment in race-breeding, of far-reaching importance to the future of Fascism.

If successful, the experiment will break down the walls of prejudice and antipathy which for some fifteen years of Fascism have divided Southern Italy from Mussolini's Neapolitan friends from Genoa north from the south.

If unsuccessful, the experiment in demographic ambitions is doomed unless a new method can be worked to increase the birth rate.

The experiment plans [illegible] already have been laid and propaganda to launch it is well under way, consisting mainly of inducing Sicily's young people to "go north," there to settle, live and multiply, cross-breeding southern bloodstreams with the "decadent" races of the north.

Fertility Follows Temperature

It is virtually an axiom, [illegible] that south of Naples, [illegible] becomes biologically more fertile with the rising temperature of the Mediterranean sun.

In the north highly organized machine-conscious [illegible] children are born per square mile, though the population in these regions is decreasing. South Unusually Fertile

On the whole, Italy's demographic campaign can be said to be a partial failure in the north, a complete success in the south. Data compiled by the royal bureau of vital statistics, are conclusive.

Only the southern half of the peninsula, Sicily and Sardinia [illegible] whole-heartedly supported Mussolini's "More babies" campaign.

The southern provinces farthest away from Rome cradle the most babies, with Harantio and the Sicilian provinces leading the race.

Northern provinces most distant from the Eternal City, whose [illegible] came with the decadence of the race, have the lowest birth rate. Of 94 provinces, Genoa and Como have the lowest birthrates, with two provinces in the Veneto region only slightly better.

Italian Purpose Cited

Since, therefore, southern Italy is ahead in the bigger and better families race, the south can be said to be the Italy of youth and fertility, the north, the Italy of age and sterility. Northern Italy and southern Italy, biologists reason, must be cross-bred to produce if possible a new uniform stock.

MARY PICKFORD TO SELL 'DREAM HOUSE'

Farm To Be Replaced by Larger Residence for Former Star and Rogers.

By The Associated Press

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Aug. 16.—Mary Pickford's "dream house," will be offered for sale within a month.

In 1920 Douglas Fairbanks built the hilltop place, then a farm, and rebuilt it as a mansion house for Miss Pickford.

During the decade in which the famous film couple lived there it was visited by many of the world's nobility, by writers, artists and stage and screen celebrities.

Miss Pickford and her husband, Charles "Buddy" Rogers, plan to find or build a larger place.

The house is a 12-acre estate with a Spanish-shaped mansion of two stories and basement. It has five bedrooms, not including sleeping porches. There are two buildings for guests.

The swimming pool is so large that paddle about it in a boat.

MONEY, WATCHES STOLEN FROM FARM

CHARDON

Chardon, O., the seat of Geauga county, was founded in 1808 by Peter Chardon Brookes, a resident of Boston who owned the land on which it was laid out.

The town stands on a peak in the ridge dividing the Ohio river basin from that of the St. Lawrence, and although only 14 miles from Lake Erie, it is 600 feet above the lake level and commands a receding countryside view in every direction.

Although Chardon's population is only about 1,500, it is a center for two important industries—the making of maple products and the dairy industry. Chardon has been for a number of years the sugar maple products center of the midwest.

EUGENICS PROGRAM PLANNED BY ITALY

E. Piccolo and noted writer on scientific subjects, blames the north's meanness to "sterile and decadent" France, Switzerland and Austria for the state of things in the Alp and Po country.

These countries, he says, have set northern Italy a bad example. He is among those backing the Fascist campaign to cross-breed the north with the south, declaring:

"The fire that glows in the south must be transported and made to burn in the cold and barren regions of the north."

Tests Already Launched

Italy already has carried on large-scale laboratory experiments in intra-racial cross-breeding in the reclaimed areas of Littoria, Sabaudia, and Aprilia, where peasants of varied stocks, from all parts of the peninsula were brought to work the soil that once lay under the malarial muck of the Pontine marshes.

In these areas, the birthrate has shown a steady increase, and the stock produced is said to be of sturdy, intelligent caliber. It was here the idea of carrying out the eugenic experiment on a nation-wide scale was born.

As in centuries past marriages are still largely limited to individuals from the same town or province, almost exclusively of the same racial stock. Sicilian from Palermo marries Sicilian from Palermo or its province. The Milanese marry Milanese. Marriages between Milanese and Sicilians are so rare they cause wide comment and surprise even today.

Homogeneous Race Sought

This has led to continuance of agnostic inter-provincial antipathies, perseverance of racial customs, some good, most of them bad, few conducive to the homogeneity of race necessary to uniform reaction toward various government projects. Translated, in other words, would be made easier if Fascism can produce a homogeneous race.

Back of the drive for more babies by introducing the more fertile elements of the south into the north, is this desire to produce a more homogeneous race, break down the old prejudices of one provincial for another.

Biologists admit it will take many many generations to produce this uniformity, but even a small step in that direction is held highly desirable.

or intrusting that with any slow of principle."

And who should be chosen as judges? Professor Frankfurter applauds Justice Louis Brandeis and Judge Learned Hand in his essay on the supreme court in the Encyclopedia of Social Sciences:

"The spirit, and culture, and insight which should be possessions of a justice of the supreme court have been stated by Judge Learned Hand:

"I venture to believe that it is as important to a judge, called upon to pass on questions of constitutional law, to have at least a bowing acquaintance with Adam and Maitland, with Thucydides, Gibbon, and Carlyle, with Homer, Dante, Shakespeare, and Milton, with Machiavelli, Montaigne, and Rabelais, with Bacon, Hume, and Kant, as with the books which have been specifically written on the subject. For in such matters everything turns on the spirit with which he approaches the questions before him. Men do not gather figs from thistles nor supple institutions from judges whose outlook is limited by parish or class."

Appointment to the supreme court is the highest political honor which this country can bestow on one of her citizens. Learning and family standing, humanity [illegible] principles and experience in their [illegible] of the virtues which [illegible] ought to reward. Senator Black's qualifications are experience as a police court judge and pronounced loyalty to Mr. Roosevelt. More Fun Than a Pack of Monkeys—and There Are 67 Cash Prizes Totaling $135

PHOTO-FUN

The Contest That Has the Whole Town Talking . . . All You Need to Enter Are Your Own Ideas and a Camera.

A Contest Game the Whole Family Will Enjoy Playing—23 Contests Sponsored By Marion Merchants. Cash Prizes Amounting to $135.00

It's great fun to take pictures, and here is a contest sponsored by the Marion Star and 22 Marion merchants that will tax your skill as an amateur photographer, yet pay you handsomely for clever and original ideas. The merchants entered in Photo-Fun each have a theme, cash prizes will be awarded for the best pictures depicting these themes. Anyone can enter, and there are no restrictions as to equipment or method of photography. Enter now! Contest ends with the close of business Monday, August 23. All pictures and negatives must be in the stores or headquarters of the various sponsors by that time.

There are no restrictions upon the number or the size of the pictures contestants take nor upon the subject material of the pictures.

This type photo requires proper lighting and the correct use of shadows; it suggests Modern Plumbing, Latest Styles in Bathrobes, Cleanliness. Pictures of this nature are as easy to take as outside pictures. Photoflood lamps are available for your use at many of the contest sponsors.

Here is a clever night shot that suggests any number of themes; Friendly Spirit, Correct Attire, Modern Home. Your friends will gladly pose for pictures of this type and help you work out a suitable theme that will fit one of those specified by one of the 22 sponsors.

The Marion Star of Thursday, August 12th, had a two-page announcement of Photo-Fun, giving complete rules, helpful hints and the list of sponsoring merchants and their themes. Merchants will gladly assist contestants in any possible way, by helping to arrange a display, by offering technical advice as to lighting and type of film to use for best individual results. Candid cameras, box cameras as well as folding cameras are eligible to compete, and composite or 'trick' shots are permissable.

CONTEST RULES

Please Read Carefully

1. To enter the contest, the contestant need only to take pictures telling the story of the contest themes of the various firms participating. Pictures will be judged on how well the theme is depicted.

2. The finished pictures with the name and address of the contestant plainly written or printed on the back are to be delivered to the participating firm to which they apply. Each picture entered must be accompanied with the negative.

3. There is no limit to the number of pictures which a contestant may enter in one contest, neither is there a limit to the number of contests one may enter, nor a limit to the number of prizes one contestant may win.

4. There is no restriction as to type or size of camera, or type of picture.

5. Prizes shall be as follows in each of the contests: First, $5.00; Second, $2.50; Third, $1.00. All first prize pictures will compete against one another for a Grand Prize of $50.00.

6. The contest is officially opened with this announcement and closes with the close of business on [illegible] the sponsoring firms on Monday, August 23rd. The winning pictures and their photographic announcements will appear in the [illegible] advertisements of the various sponsors in The Star of August 31st.

7. The judging for the Grand Prize will be done from the photographs and the prizes will be awarded [illegible] The Star of Tuesday, September 7th.

8. All pictures and negatives entered become the property of the store to which they are submitted. Neither the Marion Star, nor any of the sponsoring firms, The Star can assume [illegible] should the contest [illegible] decisions of the judges will be final. The judges will be Robert [illegible] Marion, and Ruby [illegible].

Lettuce Gets First Place In Preparation of Salads

Knowing that salads ... of fresh, green vegetables, ... soon after harvesting, give ... the right zest to a hot weather ... New York state growers now ... developed a new strain of ... lettuce. (Doesn't that word ... sound refreshing on a ... day!)

With the big Boston head lettuce ... the famous leaf lettuce, New York state now offers the consuming public three leading types of lettuce for all purposes.

Food inspectors and market experts describe the new strain of leaf lettuce as "wonderful." They say it is especially crisp and has a fairly hard head. The easiest way of recognizing this new product is by the fact that it is not trimmed as closely as lettuce which is shipped long distances in refrigerator cars. Its outer leaves, or wrapper leaves, are lonner, fresher and have a more pleasing green appearance than that of iceberg lettuce grown in the west and shipped east.

Identifying the Best

Here are a few suggestions for selecting lettuce of the best quality: head lettuce should be fresh, crisp, tender and fairly firm to hard. Make sure that it is free of decay. Avoid lettuce that has well-developed seed stems. It is found in the markets only occasionally, but usually has a bitter flavor and contains waste.

A seed stem that is objectionable, even though it has not burst through the head of lettuce, usually can be detected by wide spaces between the outer leaves at their base. There also may be a knob-like swelling at the top or side of the lettuce. Another indication is a purplish tinge on the outer edges of the leaves. Dead or discolored areas on the outer leaves may be an indication of decay.

Broken, ragged, bruised or wilted leaves should not be considered as detracting from the quality of the head, since these defects may be removed by trimming.

The Big Boston head should be large, clean and white and should be avoided only if it contains dark spots. The green outer leaves of head lettuce are much richer in Vitamin A than the inner leaves from the same head, so avoid that temptation to throw away the outer leaves. Washed and freshened by crisping in the refrigerator, they may be cut up and added to the body of the green salad, or to any vegetable salad.

Actually, from a nutritionist's point of view, these outer leaves contain the most valuable part of the lettuce.

Lots of Vitamins

It is established now that along with Vitamin A, lettuce also supplies Vitamins C and E in good quantity, a fair amount of Vitamin B and likewise some Vitamin D. That seems like a bumper crop of vitamins in a single package, but lettuce brings us all of them.

Boston lettuce does not form as hard a head as the iceberg type, but it is of finer texture than iceberg and the pale green, or golden inner leaves have a soft, buttery flavor. Many consider it superior to the common iceberg type in flavor and quality.

Lettuce sandwiches with mayonnaise are favored not only for luncheons and picnics, but for a late snack, with a glass of milk, since the combination of lettuce and milk is thought to induce sleep. If the lettuce is washed, crisped in a cheesecloth bag and carried to the picnic for last-minute addition to sandwiches, the result is more nourishing and attractive. Leaf lettuce is the best choice just now for sandwiches and for some salads. It is inexpensive and plentiful.

Big Boston head lettuce is preferred by chefs in big hotels and in famous restaurants. They consider that its outer leaves make the most appetizing and crisp garnish.

Don't be ashamed to eat the garnish around your salad; cold cuts or cold plate. It's quite the thing to eat up the decorations these days, and just such food satisfies the hot weather craving for "something different," as well as maintaining bodily comfort during the summer.

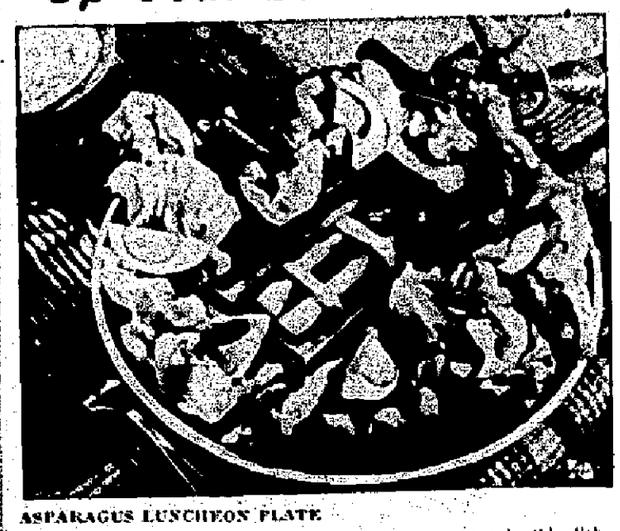
Suggestions on Livening Up Your Summer Meals



ASPARAGUS LUNCHEON PLATE

Nearly every color on the culinary spectrum appears in this dish. Stalks of green asparagus are topped by strips of red pimiento and imbedded in gelatin. Slices of hard-cooked egg and fresh tomatoes and crisp leaves of lettuce add to the rainbow.

Point up your meals these languid days of waning summer with some colorful dishes.

The increasingly popular fruit platters and refrigerator desserts offer endless possibilities for combining foods that are harmonious in taste and color.

Top a generous plate of diced pineapple, sliced oranges, peaches with a few red raspberries and blueberries. Add a dash of lemon or apricot and seedless grape juice and just the right amount of your favorite salad dressing.

Rainbows With Melons

Dig a little hole in the center of a fruit plate and insert a mound of cottage or cream cheese.

Arrange thin slices of honeydew, cantaloupe and watermelon in rainbow effect.

For a red-and-green salad, stuff ripe tomatoes with diced cucumbers, artichoke hearts, green beans, pears or chopped green peppers. (Whole cooked beets may be used in place of the tomatoes.) Serve salad greens and top with dressing.

Try filling a jellied tomato ring with crab, shrimp, salmon or chicken salad. Garnish it with cucumber pickle rings, artichoke hearts (marinated in French dressing) and ripe olives. Outline the plate with cress.

Cauliflower Surrounded

Use mint-flavored gelatin for a fruit mold. When it has congealed unmold it on lettuce and surround it with seedless grapes, alligator pear slices and pitted red cherries. French dressing is especially suitable for this.

Place a cooked cauliflower in the center of a small vegetable platter and surround it with a ring of diced carrots which in turn have been outlined with buttered beets. Parsley, cress, radish "roses" or celery "curls" will complete the picture.

Serve a jellied Roquefort cheese ring on cress or lettuce—and fill it with assorted fresh fruits blended with salad dressing or mayonnaise. Top it with a sprig of mint.

Surround a cheese souffle with creamed mushrooms and buttered broccoli—for luncheon.

Fill a pea or carrot ring with creamed eggs. Pour creamed peas over an egg or tomato Souffle.

Asparagus Luncheon Plate
(Serves Six)

One package salad gelatin, 1 cup boiling water, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup cold water, 1 teaspoon scraped onion, 2 teaspoons vinegar, 6 bunches cooked green asparagus (4 or 5 stalks in a bunch), 1 pimiento, cut in strips, 6 hard-cooked eggs, cut in quarters, 3 tomatoes, cut in eighths.

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add salt, cold water, onion and vinegar. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Arrange asparagus in bunches in shallow pan, about one inch apart, and place 2 strips of pimiento over each bunch. Pour thickened gelatin over the asparagus to cover. Chill until firm. Cut around each bunch of asparagus into oblongs and serve each portion on lettuce. Alternate hard-cooked egg and tomato around asparagus and garnish with mayonnaise.

baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one tablespoon lemon juice, four cups cherries, berries or other fruit.

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs, sift flour with baking powder and salt. Add alternately with the milk to the sugar mixture. Add lemon juice and fruit. Pour into greased mold and steam for two hours. Serve hot with sauce. Plain sauce for pudding: Melt one-fourth cup butter and stir in one cup sugar. Beat an egg and add to it one cup of cream. Blend with butter and sugar mixture. Add one cup of drained fruit. Heat and serve at once. This also is a delicious sauce for cream puddings such as tapioca, rice or cornstarch.

Cheese Custard in Tomato Cups

One-fourth pound sharp cheese, one-half cup milk, two eggs, four medium tomatoes, two tablespoons butter, one sliced onion, one bay leaf, salt and pepper to taste.

Grate cheese, add a little milk and blend to a smooth paste. Beat eggs, add rest of the milk, cheese and seasonings and heat until well mixed. Cut cores from tomatoes and scoop out all soft pulp. Set in casserole and pour cheese mixture into tomato cups. Melt butter in saucepan, add tomato pulp, sliced onion and bay leaf, and simmer until slightly reduced. Pour around tomato cups and bake in a slow oven, 325 degrees F. for one hour, or until custard is set. Serve hot. This should yield four generous servings.

Preserved Fruit

This recipe may be used with equal success for cherries, currants, or huckleberries. It requires four pounds of fruit and four pounds of sugar.

Wash the fruit, remove the stems and stones. Cover with sugar and let stand two hours. Set on the stove and bring slowly to a boil, stirring occasionally. Cook until the fruit is tender. Fill hot jars and seal.

BOYS HOME FROM OUTING ON ISLAND

Fifteen members of the Pleasant Township Future Farmers of America chapter returned last night from a three-day outing at Catawba Island on Lake Erie. The boys were accompanied by Supt. E. E. Banning, Principal Marion Porter, M. E. Schmidt who is the vocational agriculture instructor, and Harry Hoch, father of Hubert Hoch who was in the group. The boys spent Friday, Saturday and Sunday swimming and playing baseball. They quartered in tents and cooked their own meals.

In the group were Harold Selter, Lowell Somerlot, Denver Holliday, Elmer Ferriman, George Young, Raymond Rider, James Rider, Loren Miller, Hubert Hoch, Harvey Fetter, Richard Cusick, Warren Cline, Paul Somerlot, Melvin Selter and LeRoy Laucher.

The Huai river project, recently completed in China after two and a half years of work, was the most important engineering project in that country since completion of the Grand Canal.
